Designed to cut fuel use

Gas tax increase considered again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton said today that the Ford administration may go along with an increase in the gasoline tax in an effort to reduce fuel consumption.

"It could be part of a package," of energy legislation being considered by the White House, Morton said.

Interviewed on NBC's "Today" show, Morton said the tax increase could be used to pump money back into the sagging economy.

But one of the problems to be considered, he said, is: "How do you get the tax money back into the economy in an equitable fashion?"

"I think we have to look at the other alternatives first," he added.

Although President Ford has condemned it to death, the notion of a fuel-saving gasoline tax refuses to die.

With many of the President's top energy officials still talking up the gasoline tax, Ford may yet find the proposal among their forthcoming recommendations. The officials suggest that when he sees their other proposals, Ford may decide the gasoline tax isn't so bad after all.

Ford has ordered his administration to bring about a reduction of one million barrels a day in the nation's oil consumption by the end of 1975, preferably by voluntary cooperation.

But the White House acknowledged a few days ago that voluntary efforts were proving inadequate.

The administration, heading for cabinet-level energy policy talks at Camp David next Saturday, is known to be considering such moves as mandatory automobile mileage standards; tax credits for purchasers of economical cars or, conversely, weight and horsepower taxes; import restrictions; fuel allocations and as a last resort, gasoline rationing.

Morton and others who favor the alternative of a high gasoline tax argue that it would be a less painful way to cut down fuel consumption.

It might not even cost a careful driver any extra money.

In Morton's version, the tax would be refunded, possibly through an income tax credit. But the refund would not necessarily match each individual's actual gasoline tax payments.

Morton has suggested a 30-cents-per-gallon tax that would bring in an estimated $28 billion a year at current consumption levels.

Most of the money could be refunded equally among all citizens over the age of 18, drivers and non-drivers alike, he suggests. That would work out to a payment of around $150 a year to each adult citizen.

A driver whose car covers 10,000 miles a year at 20 miles per gallon would break even, recovering as much money as he paid out for the extra gasoline tax.

Those who drive more would find their refund less than their gasoline taxes and presumably would be encouraged to start cutting down on their driving.

Fuel-saving drivers would come out ahead by paying less in fuel tax than they get back, while non-drivers would pocket the full $150 as a bonus for relying on public transportation and their own legs to get around.

Morton said that the tax could be phased in gradually over a three-year period.

Heavy agenda awaits legislators

Sewer rate increase on Council calendar

Members of Washington C. H. will consider an emergency ordinance to increase sewer rates at the regular semi-monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the City Office Building.

The emergency ordinance which establishes increased rates to be charged for services of the municipal waste water system and for the collection and disposal of sanitary and industrial wastes tops a heavy agenda for Council members.

City Manager Dan Wolford said the new rate structure will be basically a $1 increase per 100 cubic feet of water used. He said minimum bills would be increased to $2 for persons using 200 cubic feet of water or less per month.

Wolford also pointed out that sewage customers are presently billed on a quarterly basis at $5 per three months of service. Under the proposed rate structure, the bills would be $6 per a three-month period on the minimum billing basis.

THREE OTHER emergency ordinances and two emergency resolutions will also be considered by City Council members in addition to a public hearing on a rate increase request submitted by the Court Cable Co., 218 E. Court St.

Wolford said the two emergency resolutions deal with an application for flood insurance and a resolution to indicate the building permit system adopted and the review procedure for the system.

The three other emergency ordinances deal with the city's building permit system. The first ordinance relates to permit fees for building permits, the second to fees for electrical installations and the third for permit fees for the installation or construction of plumbing fixtures or waste pipes.

According to the city manager, the Court Cable Co., has submitted a request for a rate increase from the present charge of $5 per month to $6 per month. The company has requested the new rate structure to become effective Jan. 1.

A public hearing regarding the Court Cable Co. request will be held by City Council members immediately following the opening of the meeting.

Christmas decorations to be lighted Dec. 15

Christmas decorations in the downtown Washington C.H. business district will be lighted Dec. 15.

The decision to light the Christmas decorations along Court Street in the central business district and on the Courthouse was finalized Monday night by members of the Fayette County Board of Commissioners in conjunction with Washington C. H. city officials.

The decorations will be lighted from 6 until 10 p.m. each night from Dec. 15 through Dec. 31. However, on Christmas eve the lights will be on from 6 p.m. until midnight.

Scott Lanum and Mark Fisher, juniors at Washington Senior High School, were responsible for placing the decorations on the Courthouse building this year, while members of the city street department, under the direction of superintendent Bill Duncan, placed the lights and decorations along Court Street in the downtown business district.

The decorations for the Courthouse were originally made two years ago by a group of six Washington C.H. persons. They were Donald Riber, Mrs. Barbara Lanum, Steve Self, Bill Williams, Pete Yahn and David DeWeese.

Massive school legislative package submitted to solons

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Board of Education Monday called upon the next General Assembly to increase state funding of public schools and adopted new standards for the training of college students to become teachers.

In a 40-item legislative package, the board recommended the state pay half of the cost of public education by 1978, compared with about 40 provided currently.

And it suggested that the present school foundation formula be replaced by an "equal yield plan" which would guarantee school districts a minimum level of dollar support per pupil for each mill of local property tax.

The board said closer funding related to the "growth potential" of the state income and sales taxes "would provide an improved state of stability to school finances."

Also proposed was statewide assessment, collection and distribution of taxes on electric and gas companies and railroads. The board said that since all the people are consumers all should benefit from property taxes on such utilities.

The new standards, designed to strengthen instructional programs of colleges preparing students for teaching careers, will be phased into effect over a four-year period beginning Jan. 1, 1976.

Major revisions would require that prospective teachers gain more classroom teaching experience, receive training in reading instruction and receive instruction in diagnosing learning problems and in establishing a corrective instructional program.

The standards also call for lowered faculty-student ratios for better supervision of students working in schools as part of their training.

During a public hearing held by the board of the standards prior to its regular monthly meeting, nearly all witnesses favored the new requirements.

Most indicated they considered the revised standards a major step toward refining teacher education. Several noted that the standards must be backed up with adequate state funding of college training programs.

The board also agreed to establish a 15-member committee of educators, students and lay citizens to maintain and revise teacher education standards and recommend requirements on which teaching licenses will be issued.

The board of education will appoint committee members to staggered, five-year terms.

The legislative proposals covered virtually all areas of school operations.

Other legislative recommendations:

—Compulsory kindergarten for children five years old by Sept. 30, "unless the parent provides written reasons for nonattendance based on religious beliefs or insufficient physical, mental or social development."

—State licensing of prekindergarten teachers, not now required.

—Reduced teacher-pupil ratios, and equalization of ratios between districts.

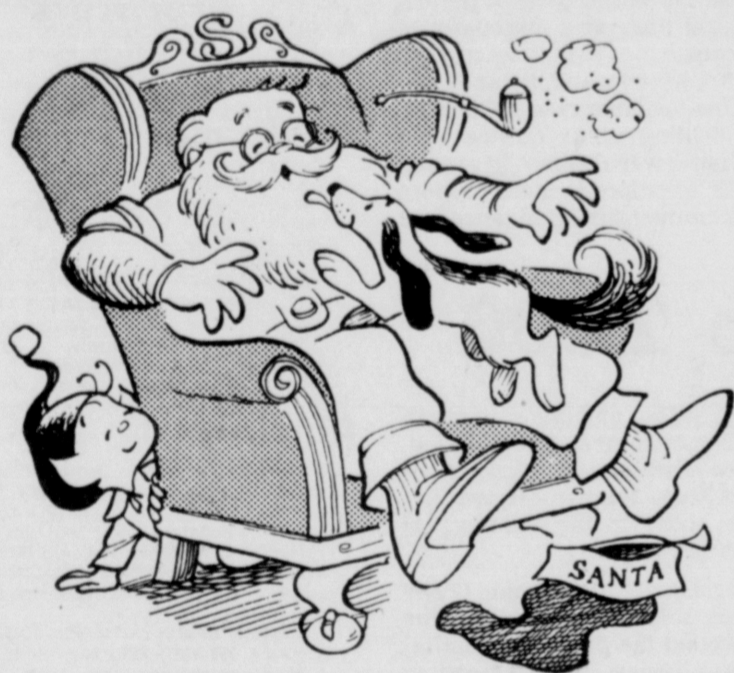

—Ohio statutes for regulating due process for students in suspension or expulsion cases should be reviewed in light of recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions.

—Expansion of services for physically handicapped children by $1 million a year, and including home instruction, supplemental tutoring and transportation.

—Provision of additional vocational education units through the 1977 fiscal year.

—Appropriation of $40 million to aid school districts in providing "basic school facilities."

—Increase pupil transportation subsidies to keep pace with higher costs, and required state bidding for school bus purchases.

Coalfield picketing slices production

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Although a tentative agreement was reached early Tuesday between striking mine construction workers and coal contractors, it remained unclear if workers would heed official calls for an end to picketing in the coalfields.

The tentative agreement, which covers some 4,400 UMW workers, now requires approval by the union's bargaining council before being submitted to a rank-and-file ratification vote.

No details of the agreement were released.

Although affiliated with the 120,000 soft coal miners who accepted a new three-year pact last week, the construction workers operate under a separate contract. When negotiations between the workers and the Association of Bituminous Contractors failed to reach a settlement at the time of the miners' agreement, construction workers asked miners to continue their strike in a sympathy gesture.

"We urge the mine construction workers not to picket outside the mines," UMW official Phil Sparks said. UMW President Arnold Miller earlier said that the workers could face court action by the companies involved.

Pickets shut down several mines Monday when UMW officials said miners refused to cross picket lines. About a fifth of the mines scheduled to begin operations after a month-long layoff were closed.

Some spokesmen had indicated that a tentative agreement would be enough to pull the workers off the picket lines, although early samplings reveal many were waiting for official instructions before retreating.

Pickets at the Freeman Coal Co.'s No. 3 mine near Waltonville, Ill. said they heard of the tentative accord but hadn't been told to abandon their picket line. A spokesman at the two Inman Steel mines in Illinois said pickets have been departing at 12:30 a.m. and returning again at 6:30 a.m. It was unknown if they would call off further marching.

There were no pickets Monday in Districts 19 and 23 in southeastern and western Kentucky and none appeared early Tuesday. But in eastern Kentucky's District 30—where only a quarter of the mines operated on Monday—pickets apparently closed down operations again Tuesday.

Christmas lights back on after dimout last year

By The Associated Press

Cities and businesses across the country are lighting up for the holidays this year, after a 1973 Christmas cut-back prompted by the energy crisis.

"We're back with lights this year," said a spokesman for Rich's Department Store in Atlanta, which cut back its decorations last year.

There were traces of concern about the energy crisis — some cities said they were turning the lights on later in the day or shutting them off earlier. But an Associated Press survey showed a far brighter picture than last year when traditional displays were abandoned to conserve electricity.

A spokesman for Southern California Edison Co. said the attitude toward decorative lighting was much more relaxed this year, although the company issued a plea to its customers to "use electricity prudently and wisely."

Hollywood's Santa Claus Lane was fully decorated with lights again this year, as was Pasadena which limited the lights on street decorations in 1973.

Manufacturers of Christmas decorations had appealed for the return to normal, contending they had huge stockpiles from last year and claiming thousands of people lost their jobs because of business problems.

Some officials said Christmas lights really don't use that much electricity. "Since lighting really amounts to such a minute portion of the over-all electrical load, we don't see any difficulty," said a spokesman for the Georgia Power Co.

The White House, however, is continuing its cutback. The national tree on the mall will have 80 per cent less light than previous years and lights on trees inside the White House will be turned on only for tours.

Mills won't seek post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., will not seek reappointment as chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Speaker Carl Albert said today.

Albert told reporters he had received a call from Bethesda Naval Hospital, where Mills is under treatment, and "without going into details, Mr. Mills, due to his health and on the recommendation of his doctors is not going to seek the chairmanship of the Ways and Means Committee."

Congress passes tapes measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has passed and sent to President Ford a bill directing the government to take possession of former President Richard M. Nixon's tapes and papers.

The bill also orders drafting of regulations for public access to the tapes and papers "to provide the public with the full truth, at the earliest reasonable date, of the abuses of government power" known as Watergate.

Ford has given no indication of whether he will sign or veto the bill. The measure would nullify an agreement Ford's staff worked out with Nixon for preserving the tapes and papers, although the significance of that agreement already has been placed in doubt by a subsequent pact between Ford and the Watergate prosecutor.

Ehrlichman report studied at trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — In his last days at the White House, John D. Ehrlichman wrote a report to President Richard M. Nixon accusing three men now defendants with Ehrlichman at the Watergate cover-up trial.

Attempts by Ehrlichman's lawyer to let the jury see the eight-page report brought other attorneys to their feet, charging he would damage their clients.

"I assure your honor, Mr. Ehrlichman and I are not trying to damage or hurt any other defendants," said William S. Frates, Ehrlichman's lawyer.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President may have to allocate steel and shipyard space to the construction of offshore oil drilling rigs, says Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton.

Morton's warning was matched by E. Douglas Kenna, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, who predicted that energy developers and other industries face a fierce competition for available investment capital.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said today that retail food prices could rise as fast during the first half of next year as they have risen this year.

Supermarket prices through June could go up at an annual rate of 15 per cent, "barring a sharp collapse in domestic and world demand," said J. Dawson Ahalt, a staff economist presenting the department's analysis of the food price outlook.

Ellen Zawel, president of the National Consumers Congress, said in response to Ahalt's prepared address to the department's annual National Agricultural Outlook Conference, "The prospects of another 15 to 20 per cent increase in food prices is mind-boggling."

Food prices last year jumped 14.5 per cent and have increased about another 15 per cent so far this year.

Jobless pay expansion promoted

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has urged congressional approval of an emergency measure to extend jobless benefits an additional 13 weeks and provide up to 26 weeks of payments for workers not now eligible for coverage.

Ford's action Monday follows the government report last week that the unemployment rate had jumped to 6.5 per cent of the work force in November when nearly six million persons were out of work.

The same economic malaise led Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Co., to declare Monday that the government should worry more about recession than inflation.

The industrialist also said "there is no reason to believe that we will have an economic upturn in 1975."

Albert added that any decisions as to whether Mills will want to continue as a member of the committee will be made later and that there was no specific discussion of whether Mills might resign from Congress.

Albert said the call was made on Mills' behalf by another member of Congress who is a close friend of the ailing chairman. He declined to name this congressman.

of France arranged for the prime ministers of the other eight countries in the European Economic Community to meet with him privately, without aides, to discuss his refusal to join than accepting the U.S. policy.

Washington wants to forge a united front of oil-importing nations to strengthen their bargaining position by reduction of consumption and other measures and then negotiate with the Arabs and other oil-exporting governments.

The other eight Common Market nations have accepted this policy and joined the U.S.-led International Energy Agency. But France has stayed out and seeks separate deals with the Arabs to insure the French oil supply.

Giscard d'Estaing is meeting President Ford on the French Caribbean island of Martinique next Saturday. There was speculation that West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt had brought back a compromise formula from his talks in Washington last week. But there was no confirmation of this.

The European chiefs met Monday for four hours and agreed that recession and unemployment are a greater danger to stability than inflation. They also agreed that the West's economic slump is "of exceptional seriousness," Belgian Prime Minister Leo Tindemans reported.

Ehrlichman's second day on the witness stand.

Chief prosecutor James F. Neal called the report phony and a charade — "One co-conspirator giving a self-serving statement to another co-conspirator that they could rely on in case things came unstuck." But he said he had no objection to its introduction as evidence.

Neal said Ehrlichman had testified three or four times under oath that there never was such a report. Earlier in the trial, Ehrlichman said he had found the document recently at the bottom of a box of his notes, still being kept in the White House.

He said he drafted the memorandum on April 13, 1973 after Nixon told him to conduct a Watergate investigation. The

The dual warnings of a coming contest for money and materials emerged Monday during the first day of public hearings in preparation for Ford administration energy policy proposals.

Morton and Frank G. Zarb, recently nominated to head the Federal Energy Administration, indicated the Ford administration is weighing moves to impose mandatory fuel conservation measures. These steps would follow

Fear new spiral in food prices

A year ago the department predicted a 12 per cent increase during 1974. However, poor harvests reduced supply and increased prices.

Ahalt said prospects are "highly uncertain" for the last half of 1975, when economists again hope for bumper U.S. grain crops.

Ahalt said additional increases in processing, distributing and marketing costs will add to pressure on prices. But he predicted such increases will be more in line with overall price trends than they have been this year, when middlemen have accounted for 84 per cent of the increase in retail prices.

Ms. Zawel, as she prefers to be known, blasted the department in her response, saying, "Retail prices are merely the noxious tip of an iceberg whose foundation has been systematically ignored by myopic decision-makers."

Most states now pay up to a maximum of 26 weeks of unemployment benefits. The proposal now pending in Congress would increase the benefit period to 39 weeks, with the federal government paying half the cost.

In a related development, the Labor Department said it is studying a proposal to bring nearly seven million more workers under the unemployment insurance system.

Department officials said Monday that they had been preparing the proposal for several months but said the recent sharp rise in unemployment made the need for change more urgent.

An estimated 12 million employed workers are not covered by the system.

Warmer weather is forecast to return to Ohio tonight and Wednesday as a high pressure area moves across the state, bringing a flow of southerly air to Ohio.

Lows Wednesday morning should range from the 20s to around 30, in contrast to today's readings, which dipped as low as 12 degrees at Cincinnati.

Highs Wednesday afternoon should reach the upper 30s and the 40s across the state.

The high brought clearing skies and an end to snow flurries over the state and allowed northeastern Ohio to escape the brunt of the second snowstorm to buffet the area in a week.

A chance of snow flurries Thursday, fair Friday and Saturday. Highs in the 30s north and low 40s. Lows in the 30s early Thursday and in the 20s Friday and Saturday.

Bumper sticker means nothing

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. DuVal of Cincinnati has discovered you can't tell a driver by his bumper sticker.

Mrs. DuVal recently pulled up behind another automobile at a traffic light in Hamilton, and noticed the bumper sticker on the back of the vehicle read: "Honk, if You Love Jesus."

She honked.

The driver, apparently forgetting the saintly sentiments, turned and gave Mrs. DuVal an obscene gesture.

report notes at the start that "so much of this is hearsay I cannot vouch for its ultimate truth."

The report said the names of John N. Mitchell, Kenneth W. Parkinson and Robert C. Mardian were given to Ehrlichman among others as participants in the effort to keep the Watergate burglars from talking.

Mitchell, Parkinson and Mardian, along with H. R. Haldeman and Ehrlichman are being tried on charges that they conspired to obstruct justice.

Ehrlichman began his testimony by denying any knowledge of the planning for the Watergate break-in or attempts to spirit a participant out of the country. He also said he took no steps to suppress the investigation of Watergate.

acknowledgements by administration officials that voluntary conservation efforts have proven unsatisfactory.

The hearings were conducted as seminars with witnesses and federal officials both asking and answering questions. Morton was asked by a witness whether his goal of leasing 10 million offshore acres in 1975 for oil development could be realized in view of acknowledged shortages of drilling equipment.

Morton said such acreage could at least be explored to find out where there is petroleum. He then pointed out that offshore drilling platforms are built in shipyards and thus are competing for space with merchant vessel construction. Such shipbuilding already is subsidized by the federal government and is vying for still more congressional support.

"It might be necessary to invoke the Defense Production Act to make sure we have the equipment to do the job," Morton said, referring to the President's authority to allocate critical materials and facilities and to the need to build offshore oil platforms.

Morton did not elaborate on the idea. Kenna later warned that the administration's "Project Independence" push to increase U.S. domestic energy production by 1985 would add to other industry growth demands on investment capital.

Both Morton and Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent emphasized that the energy crisis was not a problem of supply, but of paying for oil and other fuels.

"There's no shortage," Dent said. "It's basically an economic problem."

Among those who would be brought under coverage are some 5.3 million state and municipal government employees, 600,000 farm workers and 340,000 of the 1.3 million domestic workers.

Viet losses top 2,000

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnamese casualties rose to more than 2,000 today on the fifth day of intensified fighting, the Saigon command reported.

The command said 325 government troops have been killed, 1,374 wounded and 320 are missing, most of them in the Mekong Delta, since the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong stepped up their attacks.

The government claimed 1,800 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed, many of them by air and artillery strikes.

Only two other senators — one Democrat and one Republican — announced their decisions to vote against the former New York governor. Minority Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., predicted that no more than a "baker's dozen" will oppose the nomination.

Stock prices post gains

NEW YORK (AP) — Expectations of an expansive turn in government policies on the economy touched off a broad advance in the stock market today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 10.56 at 590.50, and gainers outpaced losers by 5-to-2 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the market was responding to several indications that the government might be shifting its primary economic aim from combating inflation to countering the economic slump—among them the cut in the Federal Reserve's discount rate late last week.

On the Americann Stock Exchange, the market-value index rose .17 to 58.43.

Oil, oil-drilling and service and chemical issues were generally strong.

The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks advanced .61 to 35.31.

Military analysts say the Communists are trying to wear down the South Vietnamese army, which already has been hit hard by casualties and reductions in U.S. military aid which have forced it to conserve ammunition.

the nomination, which has been pending since Aug. 21.

The Rockefeller nomination still must be voted on by the House Judiciary Committee and the House of Representatives.

In a letter to President Ford, Goldwater said he had originally expected to support the nomination. But Goldwater said testimony before the Senate Rules Committee and House Judiciary Committee had changed his mind.

"It is now apparent to me that Mr. Rockefeller did in effect use his own personal money to accomplish the purchase of political power," Goldwater said.

Goldwater's remarks were echoed in the Senate debate by Sen. William L. Scott, R-Va.

General Assembly wraps up session

By PERRY SMITH
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 110th General Assembly was to officially call it quits today in an informal session expected to attract no more than a handful of legislators and fewer spectators.

The lawmakers leave town for the final time this session finally assured of the leadership in the 111th, where Democrats will control both houses but not the governorship.

Assistant House Minority Leader Sen. Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, was selected for the second time since Nov. 20 Monday to lead majority Democrats in the Senate.

He was picked unanimously at the caucus called by current minority leader Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, who had been a candidate for the job himself.

Ocasek beat Calabrese to the punch in November, calling his own caucus and winning endorsement from 17 of the 21 Democrats who will be in the next Senate. At the Calabrese caucus, Ocasek got 18 votes, including that of Calabrese.

Both claimed their were no hard feelings and Ocasek said Calabrese, whom he called a longtime friend, would get a committee chairmanship.

In the House, Speaker A. G. Lanciaone's assistant, Speaker Pro Tem Vernal Riffe Jr., will replace Lanciaone when the new legislature convenes Jan. 6. Like Calabrese, Lanciaone has been promised key assistant leadership positions.

The skeleton session was scheduled at 11 a.m. in the Senate and 1:30 p.m. in the House. Only two legislators and a clerk are needed in either house to put the session into history.

The handful of legislators will mainly be carrying out provisions of a resolution passed earlier in a full session—that the 110th General Assembly adjourn "sine die" Dec. 10.

Democrats next session will hold a 21-12 margin in the Senate and a 59-40 margin in the House. They currently have a 58-41 House margin while Republicans control the Senate 17-16.

Senate Democrats were to caucus this afternoon to select committee chairmen. There were indications that

Schlesinger tells NATO of arms pact

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The Soviet Union is strengthening its armed forces faster than United States and its North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies, a top British admiral said today.

"The gap between our conventional capabilities and those of the Warsaw Pact is widening," said British Admiral of the Fleet Sir Peter Hill-Norton, chairman of the NATO military committee, at the opening of a two-day meeting of defense ministers.

Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger, the U.S. representative at the annual NATO winter meeting, was speaking today on Washington's assessment of what the Vladivostok agreement between President Ford and Leonid I. Brezhnev means to the alliance.

Adm. Hill-Norton, whose job corresponds to that of the chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, also criticized waste in defense spending due to "duplication of scientific effort, misuse of talent, (and) waste of manpower."

The ministers met with figures before them that showed the United States was still spending more than all the other 13 allies combined on NATO defense.

Schlesinger was speaking twice today, in the Nuclear Planning Group which works out guidelines for the tactical use of nuclear weapons.

Kiwanians learn of Swiss mode of living

Members of the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club became acquainted with the Swiss mode of living during their regular weekly dinner meeting Monday at the Lafayette Inn. Member George Lundberg and his wife related the experiences of their recent trip to Switzerland.

Lundberg noted that the six million residents of Switzerland have never been engaged in a national or global war, yet they can mobilize a highly trained army of a million men in 48 hours.

He added that unemployment, slums, juvenile delinquency and adult crime are almost non-existent in the Alptopped land. He also said that the average person pays only about a 10 per cent income tax.

The Lundbergs brought slides of the principal cities, Zurich, Luzern and Berne, as well as the two major mountain peaks, the matterhorn and Mount Blanc, of the Swiss Alps.

Prior to the conclusion of the meeting, President Guy Foster called attention to the club's Christmas party Dec. 16. Each family is to bring two covered dishes and its own tableware.

The organization will provide the meat dishes and drinks.

The party will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church. Ken Hughes and Dick Maddux are co-chairmen of the event.

Of all timed sports, the briefest is the quick draw in shooting in which times of .06 of a second have been recorded.

New PLO status

The United Nations' granting of observer status to the Palestine Liberation Organization was an affront to good sense and decency, yet in several respects this was a momentous event. For one thing it demonstrates that, like it or not, terrorism pays in political terms.

Had the PLO not indulged in terrorism against Israel over the past several years, it would not have been so well received in a U.N. numerically dominated by anti-Israel nations. Bitterly ironic though this may seem, there can be little doubt that it is true.

A second conclusion to be drawn from the PLO's new U.N. status is more positive. Shortly after Yasir Arafat's speech to the world body, another ranking member of the PLO executive committee suggested that the PLO's heightened status might prompt a change in its policy toward Israel.

This spokesman said that "military operations" — which is to say, more terrorism — might continue against Israel. But he also said the organization as a whole would increasingly emphasize political rather than military activity. The proof of this pudding will be in the eating, but there is some reason to expect such a shift in the Palestine Liberation Organization's course.

Leaders of the PLO may shrewdly feel that their political victory in gaining acceptance at the U.N. would be undermined if large-scale terrorist activities were continued. Also, it is noteworthy that within the United Nations the PLO representatives will now come into frequent contact with delegates from member countries. Scholars have found that such interactions with international bodies tend to mute conflict. One can hope that this effect will come into play.

the PLO status at the U.N. is therefore a mixed blessing. We continue to maintain that this extra-national group should not have been accorded special status, in particular since this was won through terrorism. It must nevertheless be acknowledged that some good may come of what has happened.

THESE DAYS By John Chamberlain

Congress doesn't want leadership

The air is heavy with complaints about the lack of leadership in Washington.

Capital city columnists criticize President Ford for being out of town when there are tremendous domestic issues to settle. The proponents of a whopping Federal gasoline tax grumble because the White House refuses to send a demand to Congress for a draconian energy conservation bill.

And there are those who are girding to upset the Ford-Kissinger-Brezhnev pre-SALT II decision to put an admittedly high ceiling on future missile and bomber plane production.

The judgment on Ford's hesitance about coming up with a tough series of demands may be true but, coming from a Congress and a press corps that is so heavily partisan, it is quite irrelevant. The point is that neither the Congress nor any of the "new" journalists would accept leadership from the White House anyway.

The so-called liberals have one unifying thought, and that is to rid the executive branch of Republican control in 1976. Unless a dreadful crisis develops overnight — say with the onset of a new war in the Middle East complicated by a renewal of the Arab oil embargo — the discomfiture of Jerry Ford will be the be-all and end-all of Congressional strategy once the newcomers are ensconced on Capitol Hill after New Year's Day.

The pattern is already plain in the behavior of the present lame-duck Congress, which is failing to give Ford a break despite his personal friendship with Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield and House Speaker Carl Albert.

There was no sensible reason for stringing out the Nelson Rockefeller hearings through all these weeks. Rocky was never this column's choice for the Vice Presidency, but surely a Republican President has the right to pick his own running mate from his own party without encountering three months of hypocritical and pettifogging delay.

The first John D. Rockefeller was bitterly criticized the University of Chicago, and he brought his son, John D. Jr., up to be the nation's Number One benefactor). Nevertheless, Ivy Lee, the pioneer U.S. public relations adviser, had to steer John D. into giving all those shiny dimes away to combat the skinflint image that our first scientific oil refiner had created for himself by making a mammoth fortune. The Rockefeller grandchildren got the message: It is the duty of the rich in a democracy to spread money around.

Nelson Rockefeller can't possibly spend his income, so why shouldn't he share his wealth with his friends? The Democratic partisans who have so endlessly probed the obvious (Do we need an audit to tell us that all Rockefellers are rich?) never once admitted that generosity in a wealthy man is a trait to be admired. They have had only one thing in mind: To discredit a possible 1976 Ford-Rockefeller ticket even before a Republican nominating convention has been held.

Jerry Ford's program for fighting inflation was a fairly timid one. So the President has been open to criticism for failure to come up with a drastic anti-spending program. The truth is, however, that Congress is unwilling to cooperate with the White House on even the mildest of retrenchment measures.

Ford isn't going to get affirmative action on his proposal to put an additional tax on over-$15,000-a-year incomes. After taking the pulse of Capital Hill, the President had to renege on his idea of cutting the budget below the $300 billion mark. Congress wants to fight recession, not inflation.

The desire to head off a depression is understandable, but the Keynesian spending measures that were appropriate in 1932, when the problem was to raise the price level, are not at all appropriate to a heavily inflationary era which can't stand any more additions to the prices which consumers must pay for goods and services.

A heavily Democratic Congress is in a position to take the leadership, if it only will, in stopping inflation and in giving us an energy policy that could hold the nations of the West together. The trouble is that Mike Mansfield and Carl Albert and, yes, Wilbur Mills are bereft of ideas. They will do all the wrong things, and then try to saddle Jerry Ford with the consequences.

So what is Jerry Ford's hope? It could be that in 1976 he will have to emulate the fighting Harry Truman of 1948 and go to the country with a denunciation of a Congress that knows only one thing, that being how to pile inflation on inflation by creating new stacks of paper money.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 11

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)

Business matters, difficult tasks, long-range planning favored. But don't rush into things. Have patience, be vigilant and precise.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)

Hunches sometimes warn when not to speak or act but are often ignored. Better pay attention to them, and to the suggestions of others now.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)

Weigh fitness and the validity of proposed action carefully. Keep eyes on the farthest horizon possible as you steer your course.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)

Don't let surface glitter beguile you. Search for facts before accepting any proposition — no matter how rosy it sounds.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23)

Don't take on too many responsibilities. You could bog down even though your shoulders are strong and your motives admirable.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

You have a fine planetary set-up. Get into the spirit of things and do your utmost to advance your interests.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Rationalize, think things over logically before making important moves — and just about every move WILL be important now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Your senses, perception and spirits should be buoyed now. You can do a great deal with little material, with even less than others to start with.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

You should have little trouble now in obtaining the attention and cooperation you need. Especially favored: finances, business negotiations, organizational matters.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Mixed planetary influences. Orient self carefully. A good period for business and job matters but unusual tact may be required if personal affairs are to run smoothly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

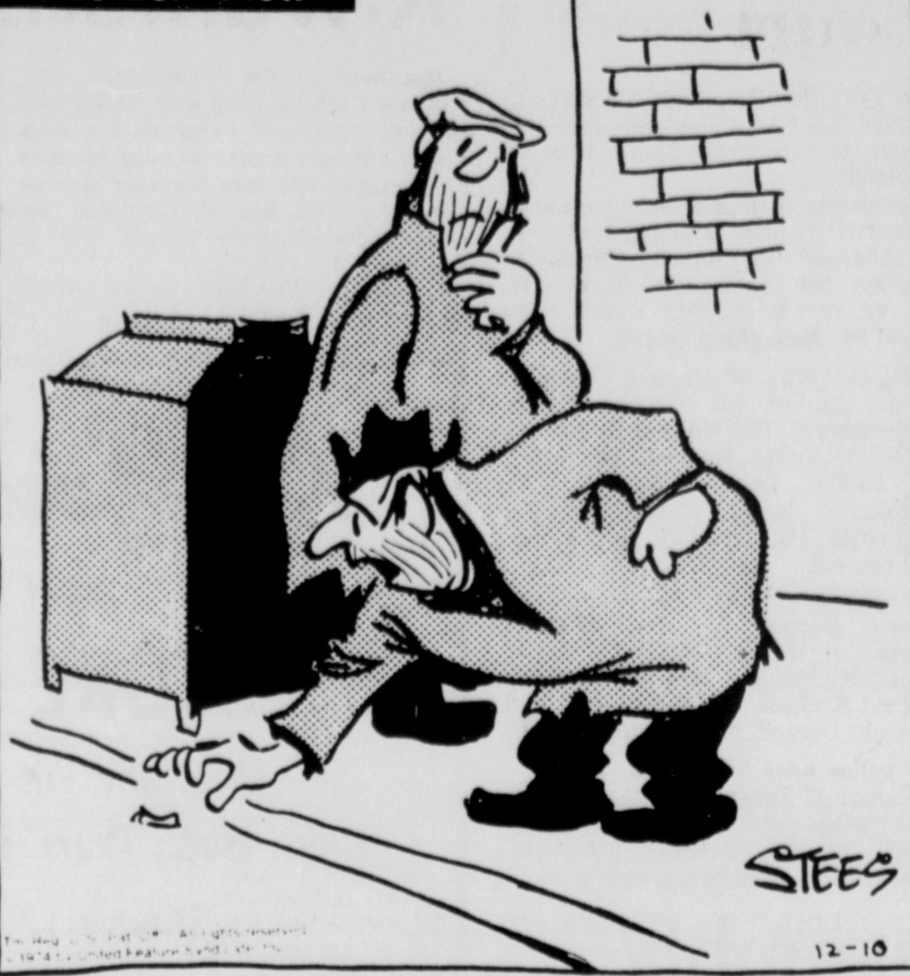

Avoid a tendency toward unconventionality. Don't join those who are indiscreet or you could become involved in situations to be later regretted.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)

All things may not go exactly as you desire, but you will find many advantages, anyway — if you look carefully in all areas.

YOU BORN TODAY have a great love for your fellowman, and your tolerance and generosity are outstanding. In this connection, however, you should use care in selecting the recipients of your altruism, since there are many who would take advantage of your good nature. But to the more morally inclined, you are a constant source of inspiration and example — which is why you would make an excellent teacher or preacher. Extremely versatile, however, you could succeed in almost any other field of your choice — especially in business leadership, the law, music, journalism or architecture.

Meat labeling aids consumers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— High prices aside, has the problem of choosing meat in your supermarket been simpler lately? It should have been.

Under a recent Ohio law, the variety of labels on different cuts of meat were cut down from almost 700 to just three.

Under the state's new uniform meat-labeling standards, packages of meat in retail stores may now have only three basic points:

—The kind of meat — beef, pork, veal or lamb.

—The primal or wholesale cut — rib, chuck, loin, round, to say where on the animal the meat came from.

—The retail cut — such as top blade roast, spareribs or porterhouse steak, which tells the buyer what part of the primal cut the meat comes from.

Retailers still can add such display names as Delmonico steak or Patio chops if he wants to do so, but he is required to have only the three basic points.

Those basic requirements give customers a reference point regardless of what store he is shopping in.

The Ohio Department of Agriculture division of foods began inspecting meat labels Sept. 30, the day the new standards went into effect.

The new rules actually were signed last April and agriculture officials began working closely with retail stores to help make the changes as orderly and easy as possible.

Master imprint labels have been in short supply and in some cases stores are allowed to continue using old labels. But they must have proof that the new master imprints are on order.

Customers can still find "hamburger" and "ground beef" labels. But now they have a better definition of what the package contains. Until the new rules became effective the two terms were used interchangeably.

The new definition states that "hamburger" can contain beef fat, which is added to lower the percent of lean meat.

"Ground beef," must be just that — chunks of meat with no fat added.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

If that were a wig,
it would've flipped

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are having an argument and don't know whom else to ask, so you are nominated.

My husband says that Arthur Burns, Chairman Of the Federal Reserve Board, wears a wig. I say that's his own hair. Who's right?

C. IN DETROIT

DEAR C.: You are. If Arthur Burns wore a wig, he'd have flipped it long ago.

DEAR ABBY: Why do so many people look down on cocktail waitresses?

When I went home for Thanksgiving, my mother asked me to tell the relatives that I work in an office. (I'm a cocktail waitress.)

Abby, I am a 23-year-old unmarried woman and I've been on my own since I was 18. I still send a part of every paycheck home because my father is too sick to work, and I'm the oldest of six.

I've never been into drugs and I don't let guys use me like some of those so-called "respectable" government girls who hang out at the bars and go home with the first guy who buys them a drink.

Will you please do me (and lots of other respectable girls) a big favor and print this with your opinion?

DECENT IN D.C.

DEAR DECENT: Cocktail waitresses are entitled to the same consideration and respect due to anyone who performs honest work for a living. The person gives dignity to the job—not the other way 'round.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from the 16-year-old girl who feels herself better qualified to rear children than "old" people of 30 or 40.

When I was a scant two years older than this girl, I had a child. I was unmarried at the time.

I put the baby up for adoption. It was my own decision, and no one tried to influence me.

Now that I am mature and happily married, I can't begin to tell you how happy I am that I MADE THAT CHOICE. It would have been unfair of me to have taken an innocent infant with me through the "growing up" process which took place between then and now.

I agree with you that having a child is a wonderful experience—but only when a woman is mature. How many teenage girls do you think have this degree of maturity?

My parents taught me things when I was growing up that only an "old" 30-year-old parent could know.

LUCKY

DEAR LUCKY: Thank you for giving others the benefit of your experience. Very few unmarried teen-age mothers are sufficiently mature to handle motherhood.

DEAR ABBY: I read with some amusement about the girl whose boyfriend told her she couldn't get pregnant because he had been "injured" playing football.

My husband told me the same story—only he was injured playing baseball. We are now the proud parents of triplets!

"For it's one-two-three strikes, you're out at the old ball game!"

Two defendants sentenced here

After being convicted of grand theft by a Fayette County Common Pleas Court jury Tuesday, Benny W. Laytart, 25, Rt. 5, Washington C. H., was sentenced Monday to a maximum term of five years in prison by Judge Evelyn W. Coffman.

Another Washington C. H. resident, Robert F. Angus Jr., 18, of 713 Oak Dr., had been placed on probation for three years after pleading guilty last week to a charge of vandalism at Miami Trace High School.

The judge ordered that Laytart be sent to the Chillicothe Correctional Institute, Chillicothe, to begin a one to five year term.

A jury of six men and six women found the defendant guilty of the theft of a three-speed bicycle from the home of the Rev. Gerald Wheat, 220 N. Hinde St. The incident occurred in May and an earlier trial had resulted in a hung jury.

Since Laytart had previously been convicted of auto theft, the charge of any subsequent theft offense is a felony, according to Ohio law.

JUDGE COFFMAN presided over the two-day trial, but elected not to impose sentence immediately after the return of the verdict.

Fayette County prosecuting attorneys James A. Kiger and John H. Roszmann presented the state's evidence. Attorney Robert L. Simpson provided counsel for the defendant. The jury deliberated for some five hours before returning its findings.

Angus, who was charged with vandalism at Miami Trace High School following the Miami Trace - Washington C. H. football game in November, had waived indictment by the grand jury and waived his right to a jury trial when he appeared before Judge Coffman last week.

Accompanied by his attorney, Otis R. Hess, Angus listened as Roszmann recounted the circumstances surrounding the charge and then allowed the court to determine his guilty on the evidence presented, acknowledging that it was true.

Judge Coffman sentenced him to a prison term of six months to two years, but then suspended the sentence and placed the defendant on three years probation.

Phillip K. Moore, 18, of 323 N. Hinde St., the other adult charged in connection with the incident was freed when a preliminary hearing in Municipal Court failed to reveal sufficient evidence against him. He had also been represented by Hess.

Five juveniles who were charged in the same incident admitted their involvement at hearings in Juvenile Court. Two have been placed in the custody of the Ohio Youth Commission by Judge Rollo M. Marchant. Disposition of the other three juvenile cases is still pending.

New real estate mortgages $1.7 million in November

New real estate mortgages totaling $1,768,178.21 were recorded in Fayette County during November, a decrease when compared with the previous month's figure of $2,532,014.09.

Mortgage releases totaled $438,880.39. Mortgage releases in October were $382,479.80.

The new mortgage figure includes $652,291.60 and 36 lots and other platted properties; $315,886.61 and 331.22 acres of farm real estate in 16 transactions, and a commercial mortgage of $800,000.

Released during the month were $219,837.39 in mortgages on 26 lots and $219,043 in liens on 233.19 acres of farm property in 14 transactions, according to the monthly report prepared by Mrs. Lorie M. Armbrust, Fayette County recorder.

A TOTAL of 69 deeds were recorded in November, 33 of them changing title to 3,855.70 acres of farm property. There were three certificates of transfer for lots.

Other instruments recorded in November were:

Three right of ways and easements, three cemetery deeds, three land contracts, four open-end mortgages, one supplemental mortgage indenture, two mortgage assignments, 15 recorded mortgage releases, five partial recorded mortgage releases, three leases, one recorded lease con-

Compton Creek project is OKd

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners approved a petition by Dwight Duff, 5809 Washington - Waterloo Road, and others for improvement of the Compton Creek at the first ditch hearing Monday.

Fayette County engineer Charles P. Wagner submitted to the commissioners a preliminary estimate of $27,760.65 for total cost of the improvement.

The commissioners set Feb. 3 as the date for receiving the county engineer's maps and profiles on the ditch project.

In other business conducted Monday, the commissioners discussed the 1975 budget for the Fayette Progressive School with Mrs. Frank Weade, chairman of the Fayette County Board of Mental Retardation, but took no action. The Fayette Progressive School is facing increased budgetary problems with the recent defeat of a .65-mill operating levy at the Nov. 5 election.

Weed killer boosts alfalfa

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio agriculture officials say tests of a new herbicide over a two-year period have increased alfalfa yields up to a ton per acre.

Dr. John Walker of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center said fall application of the weed killer pronamide doubled the percentage of alfalfa in the first cutting the following season, compared to untreated areas, or those treated with another type of herbicide.

Dr. Walker presented his findings at the North Central Weed Control Conference last week in St. Paul, Minn.

He said pronamide treatment produced almost a ton more alfalfa per acre.

Lost hunter again search object

BURLINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A new search has been called in the week-old disappearance of a 20-year-old hunter, after two men reported sighting the missing man the day he was last seen. Steve Pierson of Burlington and Jim Webster of Elsmere told Boone County Police they saw a man running in the rugged backwoods of Big Bone Lick State Park last Tuesday.

From photographs the two identified the man they saw as Ed Nichols, who disappeared while on a hunting trip. "There's no question but that is the man I saw," said Pierson, who was hunting with Webster when they made the sighting.

Pierson and Webster said they found two socks, apparently dropped by the man they saw.

Police said the new search would begin today, possibly on horseback.

Pierson and Webster said that after the man saw them he bolted away, wheeled around, turning his rifle in their direction, then joined an older man.

Boone County Police Lt. Don Stamper said Nichols is on probation for a disorderly conduct charge and may fear his probation will be revoked if he is convicted of hunting deer out of season.

The sheer full long sleeves ended in cuffs trimmed with matching lace. Lace also edged the bottom of the gown. Her veil, full chapel length was edged also with lace, and held in place by a halo headpiece. She carried an arrangement of baby's breath, white carnations, pink rosebuds and blue cornflowers with trailing ivy and white velvet streamers.

Lottery sales bring $15.2 million

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Ohio's lottery ticket sales will produce $15.2 million for the state's coffers by year's end, based on estimated gross sales of about $38 million, a lottery spokesman says.

James Skelly, lottery public relations director, said Monday the lottery has been returning to the state about 40 per cent of sales while giving away hundreds of thousands of dollars since the lottery began last Aug. 9.

Meanwhile, Skelly said, the "Christmas Bonus" prize system has boosted ticket sales that had slipped more than one million below what had been the 4.5 million weekly average.

Sales in recent weeks were about 3.3 million tickets, Skelly said. He said a survey taken two days after last week's announcement of the holiday bonus indicated sales had climbed to 100 per cent to 150 per cent of average.

Ticket sales always slump during holidays, Skelly and operators of other state lotteries say.

Despite the decline, Ohio is second only to Michigan among the 13 states operating lotteries, Skelly added.

Besides contending with the need to plump sales efforts because of the holidays, Skelly also said he was "going bananas" trying to deal with the weekly problem of telling Clevelanders the new winning numbers during the city's printed news blackout. Neither of Cleveland's daily newspapers has published in nearly five weeks because of labor disputes that include the strike against the Plain Dealer that began Nov. 1.

After using helicopters, town criers, sandwich boards and bikini-clad beauties, Skelly decided to have a pair of gorillas give away a pickup truckload of bananas. The truck with gorillas in the back will tour downtown

Cleveland after this week's winning numbers are selected Thursday in Mansfield.

The Christmas Bonus system Skelly credited with perking up sales involves addition of two double numbers to the tickets. Matching the double set of three-digit numbers in the upper left of a ticket means a $1,000 prize for the holder. Matching the double set on the upper right of a ticket wins $2,000. Other prizes based on the regular five sets of numbers remain the same.

Skelly, who said the year-end sales projections were "guestimate figures, and they are conservative," added that no lottery ever equals its first-week sales.

"That's always the biggest in history," he said. Ohio lottery fans bought nearly seven million tickets during the 10-day initial sales period. Sales plunged in the next period—also typical, lottery operators say—but increased during three subsequent weeks, Skelly said.

Skelly added that Ohioans spend more per capita for lottery tickets than do residents of any of the other states except Michigan.

Theft reports, vandalism incident eyed by police

A vandalism, two larcenies and an auto theft were incidents reported by Washington C.H. police today. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported a stolen car antenna.

Two quarter-inch thick plate glass windows measuring 5 feet by 8 feet in the front of Lord's Womens' Apparel shop at 221 E. Court St., were cracked sometime between 9 p.m. Saturday and 8:30 a.m. Monday, police reported.

Five rings valued at $30, were taken from a jewelry box in a bedroom at the Linda Satterfield residence at 1024 Center St., sometime between Thanksgiving Day and Dec. 4, police reported today.

A coat belonging to Fred Cook, Bloomingburg, was stolen from the coat check at the Terrace Lounge, Main Street, between 10 p.m. and 11:10 p.m. Monday. Police said the coat value was $65.

A car owned by Norbert Kent, 720 Dayton Ave., was loaned by Kent to three juveniles at 3 p.m. Sunday, after they told him they'd like to use it for two or three hours.

Kent reported the missing car to police at 9 p.m. Monday - 30 hours later.

A 42-inch car antenna was stolen from a car owned by Ralph Jordan, Jeffersonville, while the auto was parked at Bowland Lanes, CCC-Highway-W, Monday evening, sheriff's deputies reported.

Search continues for two burglars

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson and Sheriff's Sgt. John L. Emrick trudged around in a mile and a half of snow-covered fields Sunday evening for three hours tracking two men responsible for the burglary of the Doctor Charles Pheanis residence on Ohio 41-S, one-half mile south of the Fayette - Highland county line.

Sheriff Thompson explained a call had been received from the Highland County Sheriff's Department requesting assistance at 8:47 p.m. Sunday, after Dr. Pheanis returned to his home and noticed two men flee. The burglars had absconded with an undetermined amount of jewelry and their tracks in the snow headed them toward Fayette County.

Sheriff Thompson and Sgt. Emrick reported the tracks ended where a car had been parked on Ohio 41 and Highland County Sheriff Walter Reffitt and the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, of London, are continuing the investigation.

Prayer breakfast draws 55 students

"The Spirit of Christmas" was the topic used by the Rev. Charles J. Richmond at the meditation period for the teen prayer breakfast at the South Side Church of Christ Tuesday morning.

Fifty-five students and teachers were in attendance. Two seniors from WSHS, Gretchen Owen and Mary Ann Rudduck, led the group in singing Christmas carols. Kevin Blair, senior at WSHS, offered prayer for the food.

The teen devotional speaker was unable to attend, so after breakfast Vic Slutz, minister of the New Holland Church of Christ, shared some thoughts on "What Are You Looking For in Christmas?"

He said, "Don't just look for a babe in arms or in a manger, but look to His sacrifice at Calvary." The next prayer breakfast Dec. 17 will be the final breakfast for 1974.

Council studies village eyesores

MILLEDGEVILLE — Trash, junk and litter in the Milledgeville area were once again discussed by the village council during its monthly meeting Saturday.

Mayor Ronnie Anderson announced that the village will again have to file charges against those persons who refuse to remove unsightly collections of junk from their property.

One man has been fined in Washington C.H. Municipal Court for violations of the village eyesore ordinance, and the mayor said similar charges will be levied against individuals who have not cleared properties by the first of the year.

In the only other action, the council paid routine bills, including the councilmen's salaries.

THOMAS McMILLAN
Wilmington man named to state advisory board

A member of the board of directors of the Federal Land Bank in Washington C.H. has been named to serve on the Ohio Conservation Board.

Thomas C. McMillan, who operates, a 1,000-acre farm near Wilmington, was appointed to the position by U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz.

Known as the Rural Environmental Conservation Program Advisory Board, the group will give advice and assistance to the state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committees and state program development groups in matters pertaining to conservation measures.

As part of the board's activities, advice will be given as to the types of measures which should be approved for water bank programs, the authorization to purchase perpetual easements, the providing of long-term upland game cover, and the establishment and management of approved practices on multi-year set-aside contracts.

McMillan's appointment to the board is a continuation of his outstanding service to agriculture, Butz said. A prominent Buckeye State leader, he is a member of the Lebanon Production Credit Association, the Clinton County Farm Bureau, the Clinton County Agricultural Society, the Southwest Ohio Grain Council, the Ohio Pork Producers Association, and the Ohio Council of Farm Cooperatives.

He will serve through March 7, 1976.

Cheetah cubs born

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati zoo officials are making special efforts to care for five cheetah cubs born there over the weekend.

XENIA — The Transportation Coordinating Committee (TCC) of Montgomery and Greene counties will hold a public meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, December 11 to discuss the relocation of U.S. 35 from Xenia to Washington C.H. The meeting will include discussions of the project's history, proposed engineering designs, environmental effects, and citizen's concerns. It will be held in the Greene County Courthouse, Xenia.

TCC is a regional agency with responsibility for transportation development plans in Greene and Montgomery counties. As such, all federal funds for highway planning and construction must be approved by TCC. Citizen's needs and desires influence the distribution of federal funds.

John Fay, citizen coordinator for the regional agency, expressed hope that this public meeting will provide a convenient opportunity for citizen's involvement in planning a major highway improvement.

The communities in eastern Greene County and western Fayette County recognized the area's need for a limited access highway more than ten years ago. In 1964, the state of Ohio published a "preliminary engineering report" recommending that U.S. 35 be realigned from Xenia in Greene County through Chillicothe in Ross County. A similar proposal became part of the Regional Transportation Committee's (the predecessor to TCC) "Regional Transportation Plan, Volume II". Subsequently, a detailed location study identified four alternate alignments, including the choice of not building a new road.

AFTER THE alternatives were publicly reviewed at a hearing on April 28, 1970, the cities, townships and counties involved agreed on the location for the highway. The Federal Highway Administration approved the location on July 31, 1970. Presently engineers are studying various construction designs. Also a study of the highway's environmental impact, was performed. At Wednesday's meeting the public will review these documents and attempt to re-evaluate and reaffirm, if appropriate, the need for a new U.S. 35.

One environmental concern generating controversy is the future status of two historical sites near the new highway. Some historians from the Montgomery County and the Ohio Historical societies revealed their intention to nominate for classification as an historical district an area including the Ballard Road covered bridge, which lies approximately 200 feet north of the proposed highway, and the Charles Dean farmhouse, which lies approximately 150 feet south of the proposed highway. This petition could result in an additional delay of 3 - 10 years in the construction of the highway. The first location study lasted for more than three years. It is not unusual for an environmental study to require two to three years of research, and red tape delays for government approval of each action are significant.

To construct the highway between the covered bridge and the farmhouse, or to establish an historical district, forcing a relocation of the highway, is one of several environmental questions that the public will be asked to consider at Wednesday's meeting.

A second important concern is the highly unacceptable accident rate along the existing route, especially west of I-71. Hills, curves and the generally poor physical conditions have resulted in approximately three fatalities a year on the short stretch (less than 30 miles) between Xenia and Washington C.H.

The Ohio Historical Society will meet in Dayton on Friday, Dec. 13, to consider nominating the covered bridge and the farmhouse as an historical district. The results of the public meeting held on Wednesday, Dec. 11 will be presented to the members of the Ohio Historical Society.

Daley seeks re-election as mayor

CHICAGO (AP) — Richard J. Daley will be running again for mayor of Chicago, an office he has held since 1955.

And, as usual, he predicted "a great victory."

Daley appeared Monday before the Democratic party committeemen representing the city's 50 wards and declared, "I will be a candidate for re-election."

It ended months of speculation that because of a mild stroke he suffered in May, because of his age, and because of the indictment and conviction of many top Democrat aides and friends, Daley would choose this time to announce his retirement.

Daley, 72, will be the regular party candidate for mayor in next February's primary election.

For the first time as mayor, Daley

faces a primary battle.

Independent Alderman William S. Singer, has been campaigning for the primary since October 1973. And four other Democrats have announced they are candidates: former State's Atty. Edward V. Hanrahan, state Sen. Richard Newhouse, attorney E. Duke McNeil and businessman Edward Allen.

Republicans have not selected a candidate.

Court nixes disclosure case review

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time this year, the Supreme Court has refused to review a state requirement that public officials must disclose their personal finances.

By a 7 to 2 vote Monday, the court let stand a decision of the Illinois Supreme Court upholding a disclosure order by Gov. Daniel Walker.

The court declined last spring to consider a challenge to a sweeping public disclosure law passed as an initiative by the voters of Washington State.

The court did agree to add these three cases to its docket:

—An appeal from a ruling of a New York federal court that states may not reduce a family's welfare grant merely because there is a "lodger" in the home. The lower court said such a rule unconstitutionally assumes, without proof, that the lodger is helping with the rent or that the family has more room than it needs.

—An argument by federal prosecutors that they should be allowed to cross-examine criminal defendants about the fact that they asserted their constitutional right to remain silent under police questioning. Two lower courts have reached opposite conclusions on the point.

—A dispute between the federal government and the state of Alaska over oil leases on 2,500 acres of submerged land in Cook Inlet. The U.S. Court of Appeals in San Francisco has approved state plans to issue the leases.

Mustine named president of two-state Hi-Y group

David Mustine, son of Mr. and Mrs. C.W. (Bud) Mustine, 609 Charlotte Court, was elected president of the Ohio-West Virginia Hi-Y council during the 51st annual Hi-Y fall conference held at Jackson's Mill, near Weston, W. Va.

Mustine, a senior at Washington Senior High School, and eight other WSHS students attended the annual conference along with over 300 high school students representing Hi-Y clubs throughout Ohio and West Virginia.

Also attending from WSHS were Kevin Blair, Jim Smith, Rory Souther, Tim O'Flynn, Hugh Patton, Mike Hughes, Doug Maddux and Mike Pope. George Shoemaker is the club advisor.

Other Hi-Y council officers elected by the membership were Jenny Taylor, Williamson, W. Va., vice president; Barbara Hill, Matewan, W. Va., chaplain; and Ann Reynolds, Martinsburg, W. Va., secretary. The council will work during the year in developing the Hi-Y movement and to bring about a unity throughout the two-state area. Workshops were held for advisors, council representatives, club officers as well as committee chairmen. The workshops were designed to focus on club programming and effective operations of each local Hi-Y club.

Participants were involved in a "Hi-Y Stimulation Game" of small discussion groups with club members throughout the two-state area. The conference was designed to provide clubs an opportunity to share their ideas, while the program sessions offered club members an experience in club program development and in practicing and understanding the operation of Hi-Y. Club members involved themselves in learning new tools of club organization and planning.

NEW YORK (AP)—Three major administrative assignments in key domestic bureaus of The Associated Press were announced Monday by Wes Gallagher, president and general manager of the news cooperative.

Burl Osborne, 37, chief of bureau for Ohio since 1972, has been appointed assistant chief of bureau at Washington, D.C., which is the AP's largest bureau. He will assist Chief of Bureau Marvin Arrowsmith in directing the Washington news report.

Osborne succeeds Walter Mears, 39, who resigned to become chief of The Detroit News' Washington bureau.

James C. Lagier, 39, chief of bureau at San Francisco for Northern California, succeeds Osborne at Columbus.

State releases funds for Xenia

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state has released more than $2.5 million in disaster funds to help Xenia rebuild its downtown district and replenish its depleted budget.

A tornado caused extensive damage and heavy loss of life in the southwestern Ohio city last April.

The Ohio Controlling Board approved the Disaster Relief Grants on Monday after a last-minute addition to the agenda.

The watchdog agency released $1.14 million for the city's 25 per cent share in a federal urban renewal project to reshape the badly-damaged central business district.

The board also approved $640,000 for the city's operating budget and $611,766 for the city's 50 per cent match of a federal capital grants program that will permit improvements at an industrial park for relocated industries.

The city got $131,085 to match a grant from the federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation for work on Shawnee Park. State Sen. Max Dennis, R-10 Wilmington, pushed the Xenia grants through, gaining board approval to waive a two-week waiting period for comments on the requests from state agencies and local planning boards.

In fact, because the move was unexpected and final papers were not ready, the money probably will not be technically released until the board's next meeting in two weeks.

The Controlling Board released $492,000 for improvements on a marina at Mosquito Lake State Park in Trumbull County, but deferred action on 14 requests from the Department of Transportation.

State Rep. Robert A. Nader, D-55 Warren, complained that the Mosquito Lake project had been unnecessarily delayed and asked that the other money be held up until the state begins the lake improvements.

In other action the controlling board: —Agreed to a $500,000 Operating Supplement Subsidy for the purchase of library materials at the Cleveland State University.

—Approved Department of Education requests for $66 million in school foundation money and $321,649 for the purchases of 61 school buses.

—Agreed to a Health Department request for $423,800 to enter into contracts with the Ohio Medical Advances Institute and the Ohio Foundation for Medical care to reform Medical Review Independent Professional Review functions at Ohio nursing homes.

—Approved the release of $433,744 to the Department of Mental Health for the state's share in the Holmes County Training Center and Workshop project.

—Approved a Mental Health request for $415,000 for repairs at the Cleveland Psychiatric Institute.

—Said yes to a Mental Health request for a $445,000 architect's fee for Dayton Residence Center for the Mentally Retarded.

Man loses disorderly conduct case

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Ohio man who challenged a Cincinnati disorderly conduct ordinance had his latest case turned down Monday by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The court refused to consider the challenge by Stephen Karlan, who was convicted and fined $50 after the 1971 incident.

Karlan, then a law student at the University of Cincinnati, was arrested after a verbal exchange with a policeman. Karlan was working on a friend's car when police investigated.

The Supreme Court, over the dissent of Justice William O. Douglas, let stand without a hearing the conviction of Karlan, who was later denied entrance to the Ohio bar.

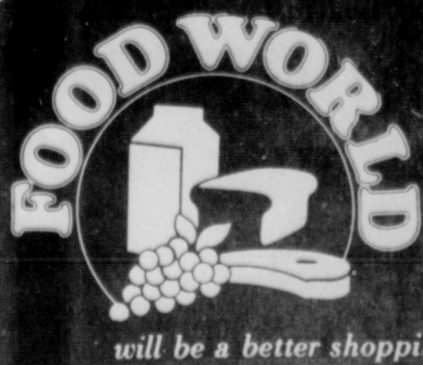

The ordinance makes it illegal to behave "in a noisy, boisterous, rude, insulting or other disorderly manner with the intent to abuse or annoy any person."

Karlan's conviction was upheld by the Ohio Supreme Court before the appeal to the nation's highest court.

Last March, the U.S. Supreme Court struck down a New Orleans ordinance making it unlawful "to curse or revile or use obscene or opprobrious language toward or in reference to" a police officer performing his duties.

Abortions financed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is financing abortions for up to 278,000 poor women each year at a cost of $50 million, says an official of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Tonight's viewing instructions call for anyone interested in good drama to watch "After the Fall" on NBC. If you'd prefer a bad amateur hour, catch "Out to Lunch" on ABC.

NBC's offering is an excellent television adaptation by Arthur Miller of his 1964 stage drama which some critics say was modeled on the life of the late Marilyn Monroe, Miller's second wife.

Although the show runs 2½ hours, it's worth every minute of your time if only for the brilliant performance of Faye Dunaway, cast as Maggie, a waiflike, insecure, not-too-bright receptionist who achieves fame as a singer, only to self-destruct at the pinnacle of success.

She's in fine acting company with Christopher Plummer, cast in the central role of Quentin, an anguished attorney who in successive steps becomes Maggie's adviser, lover and then husband.

The play basically is about the dilemma of a man who cannot bring himself to marry for a third time until he's confronted his past mistakes and decided whether he has the chance of a decent future.

So much for tonight's good viewing news. On the flip side of the channel is the bad news — ABC's "Out to Lunch" special.

This opus fantasizes about what might happen if Elliott Gould, Rita Moreno and delegates from "Sesame Street" and "The Electric Company" took over ABC while the network's regular employees were out at lunch.

After seeing it, I'm surprised ABC hasn't ordered its people to eat lunch at their desks every day from now on.

This show, by a new commercial subsidiary of the Children's Television Workshop, has skits intended to be somewhat satirical. They aren't. They're amateurish and waste both time and performing talent.

Bellefontaine schools shut; no money

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio (AP) — Schools in Bellefontaine closed today until Jan. 2, following the third defeat of a 5.9-mill levy which left them without operating funds, said Supt. Harold Martin.

Voters rejected the levy in May, August, and in the Nov. 5 general election. Under state law, a school system may put a levy request on the ballot only three times in a calendar year.

Because state law also dictates a school system may not end the year with a deficit, the alternative is to close for a few days in December, Martin said.

Bellefontaine is one of five Ohio districts forced to close late this year because of levy defeats.

In Doylestown, parents and citizens raised $41,000 to reopen schools in the Chippewa Local School District after voters rejected a 5.9-mill levy.

The Warren School District in Trumbull County closed last week, Wellington schools in Lorain County shut down Nov. 30 after a 9.6-mill levy failed, and Elyria schools, also in Lorain County, may suspend classes by Friday because voters turned down a 6.37-mill levy, according to Dr. Paul Spayde, assistant state superintendent of public instruction.

Martin said administrators will "regroup" and take the proposal to citizens again next spring. The school board will study the budget to see where it can be trimmed for 1975, he added.

The missed days will be made up in the spring, Martin said.

Lions in crucial situation

By LARRY WATTS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

"We have a tough road to hoe from this point on," admitted Washington coach Gary Shaffer as he prepares the Lions for South Central Ohio League contests with Unioto on Friday and Greenfield on Tuesday.

After posting a 1-3 record in their first four games, the invasion of the Shermans marks the first time the Lions will be able to pull their home uniforms out of the mothballs this season. Unioto is currently 1-2 overall and 0-2 in SCOL play, while Court House is 0-1 in the league.

"Unioto was one of the more physical teams we faced last year," Shaffer explained. "We will have to have a good all around defensive effort since they possess both a good inside and outside attack. We will have to concentrate on blocking off on rebounds and double teaming inside when the situation calls for it."

Unioto's hopes rest mainly on the shoulders of seniors Greg Alcorn and Steve Frey. Alcorn is the Tanks' 6-foot-8 pivotman, while Frey, who is a 5-foot-10 guard, can set the nets afire from 20 feet out. In the three games, Alcorn has pumped in 48 points and Frey has tallied 42 points.

Drawing the starting assignments at forwards are Jeff Throckmorton and Pat Kerns, both of whom are 6-foot-2. Throckmorton, who is averaging 10 points per game, is probably the coolest member of the Sherman quintet. Throckmorton possesses an exceptional eye from the outside, but does not drive well. Kerns, who is a strong rebounder, has collected most of his 23 points from the inside.

Greg Anderson, a 5-foot-10 transfer from Portsmouth, is the Shermans' other starting guard. Not known for his scoring ability, Anderson's key asset is his quick hands on defense.

With Unioto holding a great height advantage over Washington, the Lions will probably try to run as much as possible on the big boys. Shaffer said he will keep substituting in order to have a fresh lineup in the game at all times.

Greenfield is off to a roaring start with a 4-0 record overall and 2-0 showing in the SCOL. However, before the tigers host the Lions next Tuesday, they must face Circleville on Friday. Circleville is 5-0 for the year and also 2-0 in league competition.

"We usually have good games with McClain," reflected Shaffer. "Defensively, they play a very aggressive man-to-man and are very quick. On offense, the tigers are very good passers and excellent shooters."

Bill Flynn, a 6-foot senior guard, and Steve Harvey, who is a 6-foot-3 junior forward, have been the most productive players in the Tigers' attack. Both players are averaging approximately 14 points per game this season.

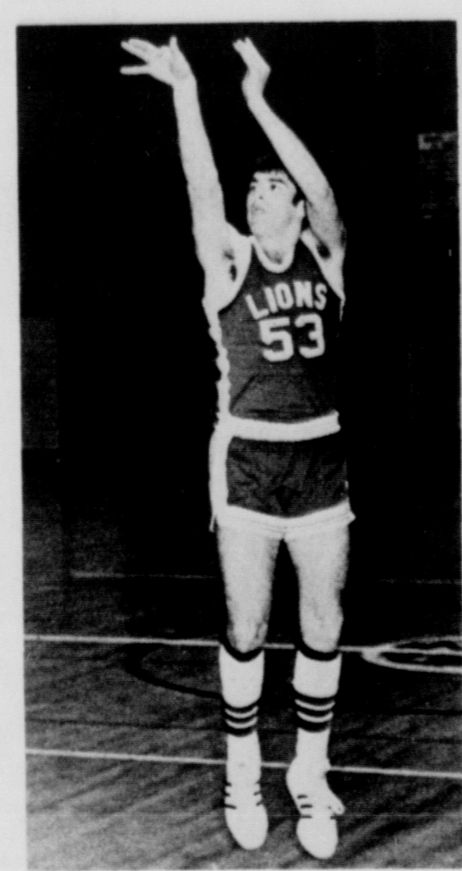

Steve Willett, a 6-foot-3 senior center, is also averaging in double figures for the Tigers. He has collected 44 points for a 11 point average.

Rounding out the remainder of Greenfield's starting lineup will be Dave McCoy at forward and Joe Stewart at guard. McCoy, who is a 6-foot-2 senior, has pumped in 32 points. Stewart, a 5-foot-7 senior, has tossed in a total of 29 points.

Despite the 1-3 record, Shaffer feels his squad is continuing to show improvement. Any time a team has to open its schedule with its first four games away from home, the job is not going to be easy.

"Our overtime loss to Madison Plains was attributed to lack of leadership and poor shot selection," Shaffer indicated. "Although they outscored us 5-0 in the overtime, we took six shots from the field compared to their one. We only made three of 11 attempts from the field in the final 11 minutes. However, I think it was the type of game we would have won if it had been at our place."

Shaffer said most of the troubles with the team have all been little, but they are difficult to correct when the team is constantly on the road. The scoring has been pretty even, but ball control in the last three or four minutes has been a problem.

DOUG PHILLIPS

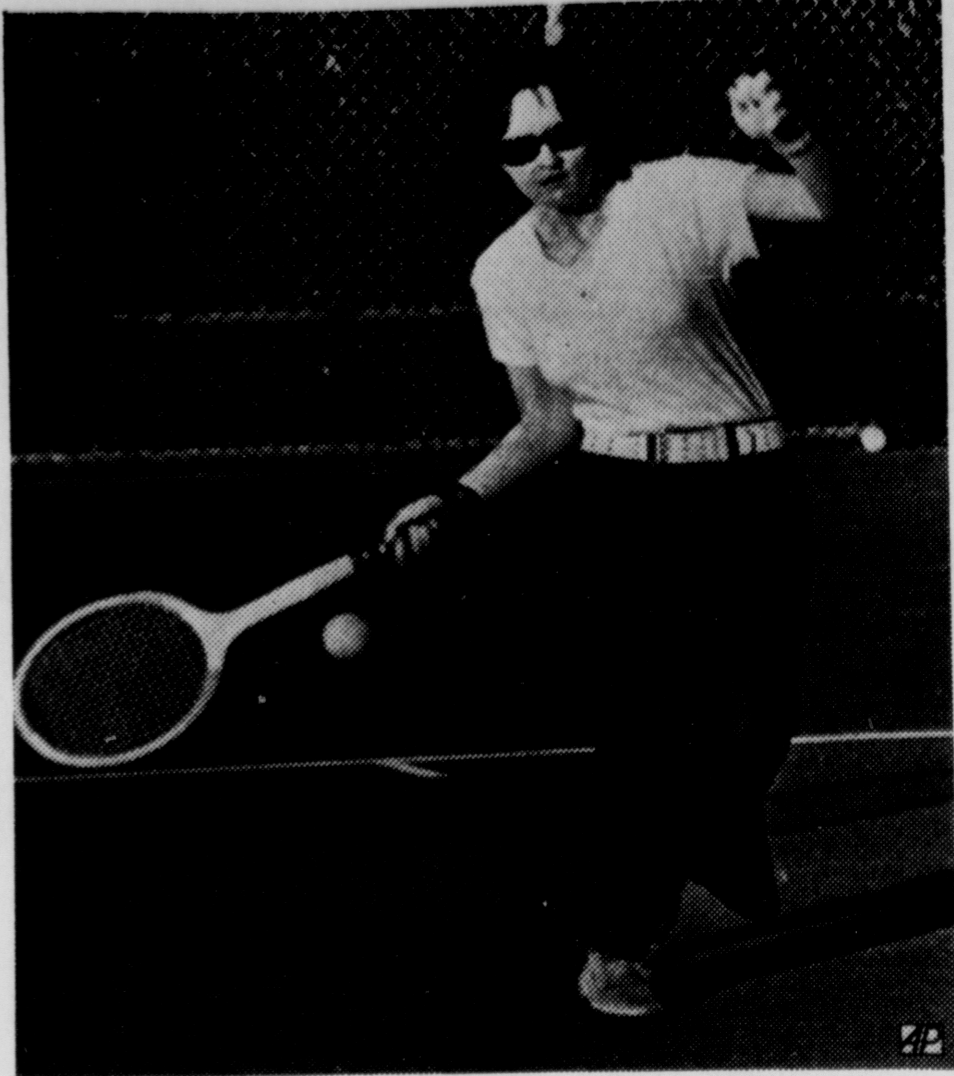

Led by 6-foot-3 junior forward Doug Phillips, the Lions have three players averaging in double figures. Phillips had an outstanding weekend against East Clinton and Madison Plains as he pumped in a total of 42 points and brought down 33 rebounds. In bringing his point total to 65, Shaffer thinks Phillips is now playing like he is capable of this year.

Chuck Byrd, who has been alternating between guard and forward, has tossed in 49 points. Senior guard Craig Shaffer, who is still being slowed up by a severely pulled thigh muscle, has tallied 46 points.

Freshman center John Denen is averaging just under double figures. Denen, who sat out part of the East Clinton game because of illness, has dropped in 39 points.

Depending on whether he wants to run with the ball or have more rebounding power, either Jerry Knisley or Ken Upthegrove will round out the starting lineup. Knisley, who is 5-foot-9, scored 12 points against East Clinton. Upthegrove, a sophomore, adds more rebounding strength to the attack with his 6-foot-2 frame.

"This is a do-or-die situation for both teams," remarked Shaffer as he looked ahead to Friday's game with Unioto. "With Circleville and Greenfield getting off to such a fast start, neither one of us can afford to suffer a defeat."

BLIND TENNIS PLAYER — Christell Ehrler, blind since she was five years old, plays tennis on the courts at Kentfield, Calif. The 19-year-old college student plays several times a week and even has beaten some of her opponents. She is able to follow the ball by the thud when it hits the court.

Southern Cal was given 435 points by the nation's sports writers and broadcasters after beating Oklahoma State 107-88 and Utah 102-82. South Carolina, last week's No. 5 club, was beaten 90-84 by Oklahoma, one of three new teams in the Top Twenty.

Davis keys Flyers' win over Detroit

By The Associated Press

Detroit basketball Coach Dick Vitale says Dayton guard Johnny Davis, who almost singlehandedly demolished the Titans Monday night, definitely is All-American material.

"Davis was the key to everything they did," Vitale said after the Flyers beat Detroit 90-76 behind the sophomore guard's 34-point performance. "You have to stop him to stop Dayton."

"The whole Dayton offense goes down the court head-hunting to get Davis free," Vitale observed.

The 6-foot-2 Davis seemed to dribble right through the Titan press and hit the basket from all angles. He netted 14 points in a five-minute stretch en route to 22 second-half points and had a perfect 12-12 night from the free throw line.

The Flyers held a narrow advantage for most of the first half and had a 47-31 margin at intermission. They then got hot in the second period, hitting 67 per cent of their shots from the field, while Detroit managed only 30 per cent.

Assisting the Dayton attack were Joe Fisher and Leighton Moulton with 14 points apiece. Allen Elijah had a game-high 15 rebounds. The Flyers improved their record to 3-1.

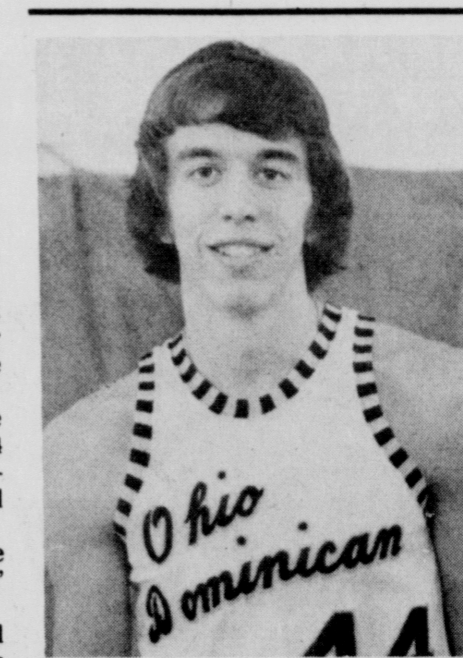

The loss was Detroit's first in three games. Dennis Boyd was the visitors' leading scorer with 13 points.

In other Ohio college basketball action Monday night, Central State downed Kenyon 79-65 as freshman Steve Bayless scored 22 points to give the Marauders their second victory in three games. Tim Appleton of Kenyon (3-3) also had 22 points to share scoring honors.

Dickie Kelley swished 30 points as Wheeling, W. Va., handed Ohio Dominican its third straight defeat, 93-76. Mark Lufm had 22 points for Dominican.

Two Ohio teams both made unsuccessful trips to Pennsylvania. Wilberforce was victimized by Point Park 93-65 and Mount Union fell to Grove City 55-52.

PLAYING AT OHIO DOMINICAN — Chris (left) and Mark (right) Essman are both playing basketball for Ohio Dominican College this winter. Chris, who is a 6-foot-5 forward, is the captain of the varsity squad. Mark, who is a 6-foot-4 freshman, is a member of the junior varsity. They are both graduates of Washington Senior High and the sons of Mrs. Virginia Essman, 422 E. Temple St.

Redskins down Rams 23-17 to gain playoff berth

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Washington Redskins spoke in diplomatic chorus after they beat the Los Angeles Rams to gain a berth in the National Football League playoffs for the fourth straight year.

Nobody on the Redskins' team, after Monday night's 23-17 triumph on national television in Memorial Coliseum, was saying they beat the REAL Rams.

It's a small wonder. The Redskins represent the nation's capital, and diplomacy is one of their strong suits, or at least it was Monday night. They realized they likely will be in Los Angeles again to play the Rams, champions of the National Conference West, in the first round of the playoffs in two weeks.

"It could be," said Coach George Allen of Washington. "We still have a chance to win the division if the Giants beat St. Louis."

The Redskins, three-point underdogs against the Rams, now 9-4, boosted their record to 9-4 and tied St. Louis for the lead in the NFC East on the passing of Bill Kilmer, who hurled three touchdown passes in the second period to give Washington a 20-10 halftime lead.

Allen, who worried about the pulled leg muscle of place-kicker Mark Moseley and the badly bruised — and possibly broken — right leg of middle linebacker Harold McInton, called it a "costly" victory.

The Rams lost for the first time in 13 home games since Chuck Knox took over from Tommy Prothro, Allen's successor.

Quarterback Kilmer and ex-Ram defensive tackle Diron Talbert had nothing but praise for their potential playoff adversary.

Anderson's percentage proves tops

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A back injury has forced Cincinnati passing wizard Ken Anderson out of the Bengals final game of the season, but it won't stop him from having become the National Football League's most accurate passer in 29 years.

His 64.9 passing percentage is the best since Slingin' Sammy Baugh of Washington completed 70.3 per cent of his attempts in 1945.

Anderson was accidentally kicked in the back Sunday in a 23-19 loss to the Detroit Lions. He suffered three damaged vertebrae and was pronounced out for the season Monday.

The Bengals close their season Saturday against Pittsburgh, the team Anderson set two NFL records against last month during a 20-of-22 performance.

Anderson will be replaced by backup quarterback Wayne Clark. Coach Paul Brown said starting cornerback Ken Riley, a former quarterback at Florida A & M, will undergo a crash course this week in the event Clark is injured.

Anderson finished with a 12-of-16 effort against Detroit before the injury Monday through the third quarter.

He had 87 yards to give him a career-high 2,667 yards for the season. He set a club record last year with 2,428 yards. His record-topping season included a 352-yard passing day against Houston.

Dantley's 31 points leads Irish victory

By The Associated Press

Digger Phelps figured the percentages and kept his cool. It paid off in a 75-59 Notre Dame victory over Kansas.

The Jayhawks, No. 9 in the newest Associated Press college basketball rankings, shot 70 per cent from the field in the first half and grabbed a 22-16 lead at one point before intermission.

"We knew they couldn't shoot the whole game like they did in the first half," said Phelps, coach of the Illi-ranked Fighting Irish. "We figured the percentages."

In the end at South Bend, Ind., it was a pressing Notre Dame defense and the gamehigh 31 points of sophomore Adrian Dantley that led the Irish to their upset of Kansas. The game was close until midway through the second half when the Irish, making repeated steals, scored eight straight points and built leads up to 18 points.

Meanwhile, Kentucky, which dropped out of this week's rankings after a 98-74 loss to Indiana last week, shocked No. 8 North Carolina 90-78

Monday night with Jimmy Dan Conner scoring 35 points for the Wildcats.

Elsewhere among the Top Twenty, No. 10 Alabama drubbed Georgia Tech 91-76; 14th-ranked Memphis State edged Florida State 70-69; No. 15 Purdue turned back San Diego State 91-87, and No. 19 Oklahoma thrashed Jacksonville 87-69.

It looked as though Kentucky was still in a daze from the Indiana loss during the first half of the Wildcats' game at Louisville with the Tar Heels. North Carolina jumped off to a 15-point lead in the early going.

Then, with 6:24 left in the first half and trailing by nine, Kentucky seemed to react to the urging of a partisan crowd. The Wildcat defense went to work with Rick Robey, Mike Flynn and Conner igniting a comeback.

Conner led a Kentucky scoring burst at the start of the second half as the Wildcats forged in front by 15 points. The Wildcats shot 52.5 per cent in the second half and finished the game with 49.3 per cent.

Center Leon Douglas scored 25 points and pulled in 13 rebounds as Alabama overpowered Georgia Tech. On defense, Douglas, a 6-foot-10 junior, held three Tech centers to a combined total of only six points.

Alvin Adams' 21 points paced Oklahoma over Jacksonville.

The Boilermakers survived a 40-point, 16 rebound performance by San Diego State's Will Connelly when Walter Jordan hit eight straight points in the second half to put Purdue ahead for good.

Elsewhere, Vanderbilt, beating 61.1 per cent from the floor, shot Texas Tech 95-86; Auburn reeled off 14 straight points in the second half in beating Western Carolina 85-76; and Kansas State beat Hofstra 92-60 for its fourth straight victory.

Rick Schmidt, a 6-foot-6 forward, scored 34 points, including 14 in the final nine minutes and lifted Illinois, now 3-0, to a 77-71 victory over Iowa State.

Record performance marred by 91-87 loss

By The Associated Press

Despite a record-setting 40 points by San Diego State center Will Connelly, Purdue grabbed the lead in the second half and held on for a 91-87 victory in intersectional Big Ten basketball Monday night.

Illinois downed Iowa State 77-71 and Northwestern turned back Balparaiso 82-74 in other games involving conference teams.

Connelly, a 6-foot-8 center, garnered 16 rebounds, tops in the game, and his scoring skills under the rim at San Diego topped a San Diego State record set by Van Jacobsen in 1968-69.

Boilermaker Walter Jordan hit for eight straight points in the second half to put Purdue ahead to stay. Purdue had led 49-39 at intermission, and San Diego took a 62-61 lead midway through the second half before Jordan's barrage put the game away for the Boilermakers.

Center John Garrett and guard Bruce Parkinson shared scoring honors for Purdue with 19 points apiece. Jordan finished with 13.

The Big Ten over-all record is now 23-6 in intersectional play.

Rick Schmidt scored 35 points for the Illini, including 14 in the last nine minutes of the game.

The win upped Illinois' record to 4-0. Iowa State fell to 1-4.

Valparaiso tried a comeback in the second half of its game against Northwestern, but the Wildcats were able to hold on for a 82-74 triumph. With less than 12 minutes to play, Northwestern boasted a 16-point lead at 66-50. Valparaiso narrowed the gap to 70-65 with more than six minutes left to play, but the rally fizzled.

The win left Northwestern with a .500

Money Matters

By Robert E. Harper

Are You A "Comparison" Shopper?

Don't buy on impulse, or get trapped in "panic buying" — not if you want to get the most for your dollar.

The wise, careful shopper—the good money manager — evaluates, considers first the "need", and then studies all advertising pertaining to what is, or will be, needed.

Then, adopting a "bargain" or "suspicious" attitude (because some advertising is questionable), several competing stores are visited and comparisons of both price and quality are made.

There are times when it is actually wise, and cheaper, to buy the most expensive brand or kind because quality, reflecting much longer life, better taste, better satisfaction, is often the key to actual the lowest cost, in spite of a greater initial price.

The sofa that last 10 years and costs a third more would seem to be a better buy than the one that collapsed in 2 years or less.

In times such as these one can often find better quality and better "bargains" in used or second-hand stores. These days, "new" merchandise is often higher priced and much poorer quality than "hardly used" similar items.

Opening lead — king of hearts.

A fine declarer is like a fine detective who does a lot of legwork gathering up all the information he can before he finally gets around to cracking the case.

Take this deal where declarer is in six notrump. West leads the king of hearts and South would have an easy time making the slam if he knew where the queen of diamonds was located. He would either play for the drop or take a finesse in the right direction to bring home twelve tricks.

But South does not know at the start of the hand who has the queen, and his job is to determine the location of the missing damsel. By far his best shot is to play the jack of hearts at trick one!

Considerable merit is attached to this play, and in the actual case the jack play works like a charm. West can do no better than continue hearts and, when East shows out, South wins with the ace and learns that West started with seven hearts.

This goes a long way towards solving declarer's problem. South pursues his quarry by cashing three rounds of spades, learning that West started with two spades—neither more nor less—and he also learns that West started with exactly two clubs when he cashes the A-K-Q of clubs.

The question of how to play the diamonds is now solved. There is no doubt that West started with precisely seven hearts, two spades and two clubs—and hence exactly two diamonds.

So South cashes his two high diamonds without giving a thought to a finesse, and the slam comes marching home as a direct result of his investigative work—and by his putting two and two together to make four. It's like taking candy from a baby!

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Braces for Teeth: When?

Is there any special age for braces to be used on children's teeth?

Mrs. H.R.M.

Dear Mrs. M.:

There is no universal age at which corrective work should be started.

Each dental problem must be individually evaluated.

Crooked teeth, irregularly spaced teeth, protruding teeth, and teeth that are "bunched up" and interfere with the normal growth of the jaw can now be corrected.

The orthodontist, using X-rays, models and casts, evaluates the problem and decides on the most advantageous time for the beginning of treatment.

The key to the best results lies in a very early examination by the orthodontist. As he watches the progress of development he can begin his reconstruction procedures long before bone and dental complications occur.

I was given a general anesthetic for an operation. I vividly remembered hearing people talk and was frightened by what they said before I went into a deep sleep. Don't hospital attendants know that their talk can be heard by the patient?

Mr. E.V.S., Ohio

Dear Mr. S.:

Your observation is an important one. In superficial and sometimes deeper levels of anesthesia, patients can hear and can remember the conversations near them.

It is for this reason that all personnel in an operating room now function as quietly as possible. One of the last things that a patient needs at a time like this is to be distressed or frightened.

There was a time when people in the operating room did not fully realize that the patient undergoing anesthesia was able to hear virtually everything during the early phases of falling asleep.

The newer knowledge reduces noise and speech and adds considerably to the smoothness with which full anesthesia is induced.

Surgeons and anesthesiologists now insist on a noiseless operating room so that experiences like yours will no longer occur.

DR. LESTER L. COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "Alcoholism: A Family Disease." It probes this grave problem and offers helpful advice. For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Alcoholism booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

Bus used as forum

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—City officials are taking a red, white and blue bus equipped with a loudspeaker, through local neighborhoods in search of how to spend $2.4 million in federal funds.

The bus is being used to explain the federally-funded Community Development Act and to receive suggestions for spending the money.

"We're trying to bring city hall to the neighborhoods," said Planning Director Walter Blair.

"We'll be handing out folders and soliciting ideas on what people think is needed in Hamilton, especially in housing and housing-related conditions," he added.

Hamilton is entitled to $595,000 next year under the Community Development Act, $706,000 in 1976, and $1,074,000 in 1977.

If anybody tries to tell you that this Claus boy is not smart, don't buy.

From where we sit he's doing quite a job this year. We see that he's picking up here in the camera shop and lots of folks are going to be quite happy with his selections.

Like, for example, books. Santa knows that PHOTOGRAPHY IS... is the best general book on the subject around, and he's picked up several copies for some of the good guys. And some of the good guys are going to find BIGGER AND BETTER ENLARGING under the tree.

And some of the younger set will get some of the Wilder books like LITTLE HOUSE ON THE PRAIRIE or the set of "Little House" books in paperback.

If you're one of Santa's helpers you might want to get one of the good guys Klaas's AMELIA EARHART LIVES, or maybe Solzhentzsyn's THE GULAG ARCHIPELAGO. Another interesting book tells the story of the Pearl Harbor of World War I; yep, it seems like the Lusitania was set up to be sunk to get US into WW-1 just as the Pacific Fleet was set up to be hit to draw US into WW-11. Oh, yes, the name of the book is THE LUSITANIA, and the author is Simpson.

If you've been extra good maybe Santa will slip a copy of THE LUSITANIA under the tree for you.

Claus has picked up cameras for many of the better people this year. Projectors will be under many of the trees, too. We're told that Santa won't be getting to Octa this year. Why?

Santa's problem pup

CHAPTER 1
By Bob Boyle

Juniperperper and Jinkersnipes, two of Santa's elves, were walking back to Santa's house for lunch after spending the morning working in the Christmas ball factory.

The two walked together for a short distance when Jinkersnipes heard a strange noise.

The noise continued. "Maybe it is a big polar bear," Jinkersnipes said. "It sounds like a dog!" Juniperperper said.

"But all the pups are in Santa's kennel," Jinkersnipes said. "And the little lady elf, Kay Nihn, takes such good care of them. I'm sure none go loose."

"Maybe we better run and tell Santa," Jinkersnipes said.

"No, no, let's take a look behind that big snowbank over there," Juniperperper said. "I bet it is a dog."

The two little elves tiptoed to the snowbank, and Juniperperper got on his hands and knees and climbed to the top.

He looked over. "Hey," he shouted. "It's a dog!"

Jinkersnipes shouted, "Is it a big one?"

"It's no pup," Juniperperper said, "but it is a small dog. It looks like a little collie."

"Is it friendly?" Jinkersnipes asked.

"It's wagging its furry tail," Juniperperper said.

Juniperperper whistled and called, "Come here, boy! Come on nice doggie!"

The little dog bounded up the snowbank, stood in front of Juniperperper and licked him right on his nose.

"Is he biting you?" Jinkersnipes called.

"No, he is licking my nose and it tickles," Juniperperper said.

"Bring him down," Jinkersnipes said.

Juniperperper got up and rolled down the snowbank with the dog following barking and leaping about.

"He certainly looks pretty," Jinkersnipes said. "I wonder where he came from."

"I don't know," Juniperperper said. "But let's take him back to Santa's house. Maybe Santa will let us keep him as a pet."

The two little elves ran lickity split down the winding trail to Santa's house with the little

They ran into the kitchen. Mrs. Claus turned to look at the elves.

"What in the world is that with you?" she said. "Where did that dog come from?"

"We don't know, Mrs. Claus," Juniperperper said. "We found him behind a snowbank and he followed us home."

"Well he isn't one of Santa's pups," she said. "Ah, the poor dear looks frozen. Let's give him something warm to drink."

Juniperperper rushed to the stove and took a bowlful of warm tea from it, and placed it before the dog.

"Juniperperper," Mrs. Claus said. "Dogs don't drink tea."

But before her words were out, the little dog was lapping up the tea.

"He likes it, Mrs. Claus," Jinkersnipes said.

"My, that is a strange dog," she said. "I never knew of a dog that would drink tea. And, that is my good orange pekoe tea."

"Look, Mrs. Claus," Juniperperper said. "I believe he wants more."

Juniperperper put some more warm tea in the bowl and the dog, wagging its tail, lapped up the rest.

"I wonder what his name is," Mrs. Claus said.

"I know," Jinkersnipes said. "Let's call him Tea because he likes tea."

"No, no, Juniperperper said. "That would be a silly name for a dog. How about Orange? It's orange pekoe tea, you know."

Mrs. Claus clucked her tongue and said, "Boys, that wouldn't be a good name for a dog, but I have a fine name."

"What, Mrs. Claus," they shouted. "Tell us."

"Well, why not call him Peakako," she said. "I think that is a fine name for a dog."

"Peakako!" Juniperperper said. "That is a nice name."

"Peakako," Jinkersnipes said. "That is a good name."

"Well then, Peakako it is," Mrs. Claus said as she walked over to the dog and petted him on the head. "You're a good dog, Peakako, and welcome to the North Pole."

"Can we keep him then, Mrs. Claus?" Juniperperper asked.

"Oh, boys, you all know Santa's rules," Mrs. Claus said. "All pets at the North Pole must be delivered Christmas Eve. Suppose we kept all adorable pets, why, not a child would get one."

"Please, Mrs. Claus," they pleaded.

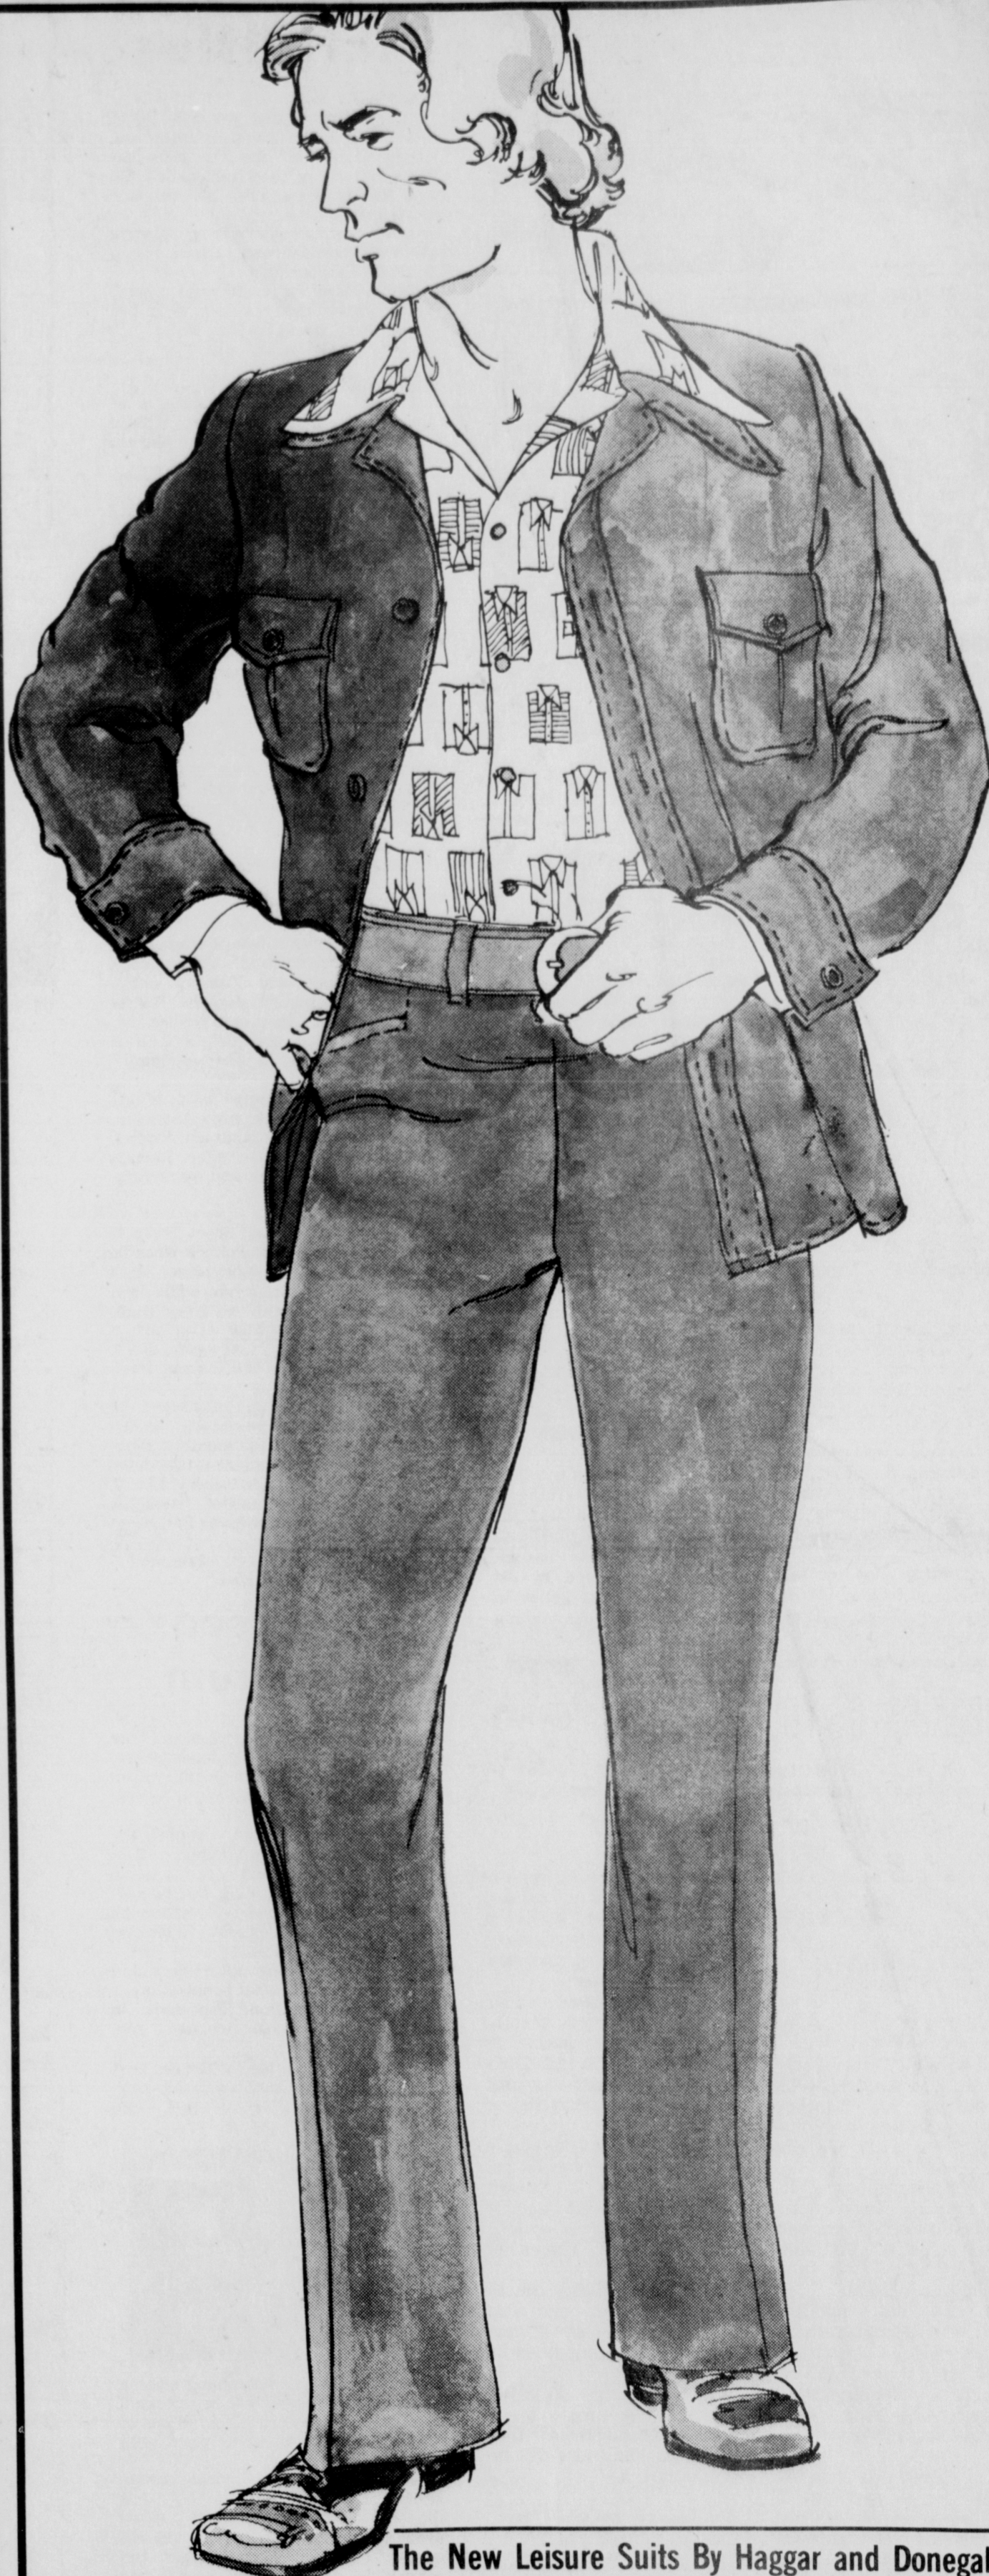

"That's Santa's decision," she said.

"Let's go ask Santa," Jinkersnipes said. "Let's hurry."

The two little elves with their newfound friend, Peakako, at their heels ran toward Santa's office.

Designed to cut fuel use

Gas tax increase considered again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton said today that the Ford administration may go along with an increase in the gasoline tax in an effort to reduce fuel consumption.

"It could be part of a package," of energy legislation being considered by the White House, Morton said.

Interviewed on NBC's "Today" show, Morton said the tax increase could be used to pump money back into the sagging economy.

But one of the problems to be considered, he said, is: "How do you get the tax money back into the economy in an equitable fashion?"

"I think we have to look at the other alternatives first," he added.

Although President Ford has condemned it to death, the notion of a fuel-saving gasoline tax refuses to die.

With many of the President's top energy officials still talking up the gasoline tax, Ford may yet find the proposal among their forthcoming recommendations. The officials suggest that when he sees their other proposals, Ford may decide the gasoline tax isn't so bad after all.

Ford has ordered his administration to bring about a reduction of one million barrels a day in the nation's oil consumption by the end of 1975, preferably by voluntary cooperation.

But the White House acknowledged a few days ago that voluntary efforts were proving inadequate.

The administration, heading for cabinet-level energy policy talks at Camp David next Saturday, is known to be considering such moves as mandatory automobile mileage standards; tax credits for purchasers of economical cars or, conversely, weight and horsepower taxes; import restrictions; fuel allocations and as a last resort, gasoline rationing.

Morton and others who favor the alternative of a high gasoline tax argue that it would be a less painful way to cut down fuel consumption.

It might not even cost a careful driver any extra money.

In Morton's version, the tax would be refunded, possibly through an income tax credit. But the refund would not necessarily match each individual's actual gasoline tax payments.

Morton has suggested a 30-cents-per-gallon tax that would bring in an estimated $28 billion a year at current consumption levels.

Most of the money could be refunded equally among all citizens over the age of 18, drivers and non-drivers alike, he suggests. That would work out to a payment of around $150 a year to each adult citizen.

A driver whose car covers 10,000 miles a year at 20 miles per gallon would break even, recovering as much money as he paid out for the extra gasoline tax.

Those who drive more would find their refund less than their gasoline taxes and presumably would be encouraged to start cutting down on their driving.

Fuel-saving drivers would come out ahead by paying less in fuel tax than they get back, while non-drivers would pocket the full $150 as a bonus for relying on public transportation and their own legs to get around.

Morton has suggested that the tax could be phased in gradually over a three-year period.

Coalfield picketing slices production

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Although a tentative agreement was reached early Tuesday between striking mine construction workers and coal contractors, it remained unclear if workers would heed official calls for an end to picketing in the coalfields.

The tentative agreement, which covers some 4,400 UMW workers, now requires approval by the union's bargaining council before being submitted to a rank-and-file ratification vote.

No details of the agreement were released.

Although affiliated with the 120,000 soft coal miners who accepted a new three-year pact last week, the construction workers operate under a separate contract. When negotiations between the workers and the Association of Bituminous Contractors failed to reach a settlement at the time of the miners' agreement, construction workers asked miners to continue their strike in a sympathy gesture.

"We urge the mine construction workers not to picket outside the mines," UMW official Phil Sparks said. UMW President Arnold Miller earlier said that the workers could face court action by the companies involved.

Pickets shut down several mines Monday when UMW officials said miners refused to cross picket lines. About a fifth of the mines scheduled to begin operations after a month-long layoff were closed.

Some spokesmen had indicated that a tentative agreement would be enough to pull the workers off the picket lines, although early samplings reveal many were waiting for official instructions before retreating.

Pickets at the Freeman Coal Co.'s No. 3 mine near Waltonville, Ill. said they heard of the tentative accord but hadn't been told to abandon their picket line. A spokesman at the two Inman Steel mines in Illinois said pickets have been departing at 12:30 a.m. and returning again at 6:30 a.m. It was unknown if they would call off further marching.

There were no pickets Monday in Districts 19 and 23 in southeastern and western Kentucky and none appeared early Tuesday. But in eastern Kentucky's District 30—where only a quarter of the mines operated on Monday—pickets apparently closed down operations again Tuesday.

Christmas lights back on after dimout last year

By The Associated Press
Cities and businesses across the country are lighting up for the holidays this year, after a 1973 Christmas cut-back prompted by the energy crisis. "We're back with lights this year," said a spokesman for Rich's Department Store in Atlanta, which cut back its decorations last year.

There were traces of concern about the energy crisis — some cities said they were turning the lights on later in the day or shutting them off earlier. But an Associated Press survey showed a far brighter picture than last year when traditional displays were abandoned to conserve electricity.

A spokesman for Southern California Edison Co. said the attitude toward decorative lighting was much more relaxed this year, although the company issued a plea to its customers to "use electricity prudently and wisely."

Hollywood's Santa Claus Lane was fully decorated with lights again this year, as was Pasadena which limited the lights on street decorations in 1973.

Manufacturers of Christmas decorations had appealed for the return to normal, contending they had huge stockpiles from last year and claiming thousands of people lost their jobs because of business problems.

Some officials said Christmas lights really don't use that much electricity. "Since lighting really amounts to such a minute portion of the over-all electrical load, we don't see any difficulty," said a spokesman for the Georgia Power Co.

The White House, however, is continuing its cutback. The national tree on the mall will have 80 per cent less light than previous years and lights on trees inside the White House will be turned on only for tours.

Heavy agenda awaits legislators

Sewer rate increase on Council calendar

Members of Washington C. H. will consider an emergency ordinance to increase sewer rates at the regular semi-monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the City Office Building.

The emergency ordinance which establishes increased rates to be charged for services of the municipal waste water system and for the collection and disposal of sanitary and industrial wastes tops a heavy agenda for Council members.

City Manager Dan Wolford said the new rate structure will be basically a $1 increase per 100 cubic feet of water used. He said minimum bills would be increased to $2 for persons using 200 cubic feet of water or less per month.

Wolford also pointed out that sewage customers are presently billed on a quarterly basis at $5 per three months of service. Under the proposed rate structure, the bills would be $6 per a three-month period on the minimum billing basis.

THREE OTHER emergency ordinances and two emergency resolutions will also be considered by City Council members in addition to a public hearing on a rate increase request submitted by the Court Cable Co., 218 E. Court St.

Wolford said the two emergency resolutions deal with an application for flood insurance and a resolution to indicate the building permit system adopted and the review procedure for the system.

The three other emergency ordinances deal with the city's building permit system. The first ordinance relates to permit fees for building permits, the second to fees for electrical installations and the third for permit fees for the installation or construction of plumbing fixtures or waste pipes.

According to the city manager, the Court Cable Co., has submitted a request for a rate increase from the present charge of $5 per month to $6 per month. The company has requested the new rate structure to become effective Jan. 1.

A public hearing regarding the Court Cable Co. request will be held by City Council members immediately following the opening of the meeting.

Christmas decorations to be lighted Dec. 15

Christmas decorations in the downtown Washington C.H. business district will be lighted Dec. 15.

The decision to light the Christmas decorations along Court Street in the central business district and on the Courthouse was finalized Monday night by members of the Fayette County Board of Commissioners in conjunction with Washington C. H. city officials.

The decorations will be lighted from 6 until 10 p.m. each night from Dec. 15 through Dec. 31. However, on Christmas eve the lights will be on from 6 p.m. until midnight.

Scott Lanum and Mark Fisher, juniors at Washington Senior High School, were responsible for placing the decorations on the Courthouse building this year, while members of the city street department, under the direction of superintendent Bill Duncan, placed the lights and decorations along Court Street in the downtown business district.

The decorations for the Courthouse were originally made two years ago by a group of six Washington C.H. persons. They were Donald Riber, Mrs. Barbara Lanum, Steve Self, Bill Williams, Pete Yahn and David DeWeese.

Massive school legislative package submitted to solons

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Board of Education Monday called upon the next General Assembly to increase state funding of public schools and adopted new standards for the training of college students to become teachers.

In a 40-item legislative package, the board recommended the state pay half of the cost of public education by 1978, compared with about 40 provided currently.

And it suggested that the present school foundation formula be replaced by an "equal yield plan" which would guarantee school districts a minimum level of dollar support per pupil for each mill of local property tax.

The board said closer funding related to the "growth potential" of the state income and sales taxes "would provide an improved state of stability to school finances."

Also proposed was statewide assessment, collection and distribution of taxes on electric and gas companies and railroads. The board said that since all the people are consumers all should benefit from property taxes on such utilities.

The new standards, designed to strengthen instructional programs of colleges preparing students for teaching careers, will be phased into effect over a four-year period beginning Jan. 1, 1976.

Major revisions would require that prospective teachers gain more classroom teaching experience, receive training in reading instruction and receive instruction in diagnosing learning problems and in establishing a corrective instructional program.

The standards also call for lowered faculty-student ratios for better supervision of students working in schools as part of their training.

During a public hearing held by the board of the standards prior to its regular monthly meeting, nearly all witnesses favored the new requirements.

Most indicated they considered the revised standards a major step toward refining teacher education. Several noted that the standards must be backed up with adequate state funding of college training programs.

The board also agreed to establish a 15-member committee of educators, students and lay citizens to maintain and revise teacher education standards and recommend requirements on which teaching licenses will be issued.

The board of education will appoint committee members to staggered, five-year terms.

The legislative proposals covered virtually all areas of school operations.

Other legislative recommendations:

—Compulsory kindergarten for children five years old by Sept. 30, "unless the parent provides written reasons for nonattendance based on religious beliefs or insufficient physical, mental or social development."

—State licensing of prekindergarten teachers, not now required.

—Reduced teacher-pupil ratios, and equalization of ratios between districts.

—Ohio statutes for regulating due process for students in suspension or expulsion cases should be reviewed in light of recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions.

—Expansion of services for physically handicapped children by $1 million a year, and including home instruction, supplemental tutoring and transportation.

—Provision of additional vocational education units through the 1977 fiscal year.

—Appropriation of $40 million to aid school districts in providing "basic school facilities."

—Increase pupil transportation subsidies to keep pace with higher costs, and required state bidding for school bus purchases.

Mills won't seek post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., will not seek reappointment as chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Speaker Carl Albert said today.

Albert told reporters he had received a call from Bethesda Naval Hospital, where Mills is under treatment, and "without going into details, Mr. Mills, due to his health and on the recommendation of his doctors is not going to seek the chairmanship of the Ways and Means Committee."

Common market meet turns to oil policy differences

PARIS (AP) — The Common Market summit conference turned today to the differences between the United States and France over oil policy after agreeing that a united effort is necessary to stimulate the world economy.

Congress passes tapes measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has passed and sent to President Ford a bill directing the government to take possession of former President Richard M. Nixon's tapes and papers.

The bill also orders drafting of regulations for public access to the tapes and papers "to provide the public with the full truth, at the earliest reasonable date, of the abuses of government power" known as Watergate.

Ford has given no indication of whether he will sign or veto the bill. The measure would nullify an agreement Ford's staff worked out with Nixon for preserving the tapes and papers, although the significance of that agreement already has been placed in doubt by a subsequent pact between Ford and the Watergate prosecutor.

Ehrlichman report studied at trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — In his last days at the White House, John D. Ehrlichman wrote a report to President Richard M. Nixon accusing three men now defendants with Ehrlichman at the Watergate cover-up trial.

Attempts by Ehrlichman's lawyer to let the jury see the eight-page report brought other attorneys to their feet, charging he would damage their clients.

"I assure your honor, Mr. Ehrlichman and I are not trying to damage or hurt any other defendants," said William S. Frates, Ehrlichman's lawyer.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica was to rule on use of the report today.

Steel allocation for offshore oil rigs seen as possibility

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President may have to allocate steel and shipyard space to the construction of offshore oil drilling rigs, says Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton.

Morton's warning was matched by E. Douglas Kenna, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, who predicted that energy developers and other industries face a fierce competition for available investment capital.

Fear new spiral in food prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said today that retail food prices could rise as fast during the first half of next year as they have risen this year.

Supermarket prices through June could go up at an annual rate of 15 per cent, "barring a sharp collapse in domestic and world demand," said J. Dawson Ahalt, a staff economist presenting the department's analysis of the food price outlook.

Ellen Zawel, president of the National Consumers Congress, said in response to Ahalt's prepared address to the department's annual National Agricultural Outlook Conference, "The prospects of another 15 to 20 per cent increase in food prices is mind-boggling."

Food prices last year jumped 14.5 per cent and have increased about another 15 per cent so far this year.

Jobless pay expansion promoted

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has urged congressional approval of an emergency measure to extend jobless benefits an additional 13 weeks and provide up to 26 weeks of payments for workers not now eligible for coverage.

Ford's action Monday follows the government report last week that the unemployment rate had jumped to 6.5 per cent of the work force in November when nearly six million persons were out of work.

The same economic malaise led Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Co., to declare Monday that the government should worry more about recession than inflation.

The industrialist also said "there is no reason to believe that we will have an economic upturn in 1975."

The dual warnings of a coming contest for money and materials emerged Monday during the first day of public hearings in preparation for Ford administration energy policy proposals.

Morton and Frank G. Zarb, recently nominated to head the Federal Energy Administration, indicated the Ford administration is weighing moves to impose mandatory fuel conservation measures. These steps would follow

A year ago the department predicted a 12 per cent increase during 1974. However, poor harvests reduced supply and increased prices.

Ahalt said prospects are "highly uncertain" for the last half of 1975, when economists again hope for bumper U.S. grain crops.

Ahalt said additional increases in processing, distributing and marketing costs will add to pressure on prices. But he predicted such increases will be more in line with overall price trends than they have been this year, when middlemen have accounted for 84 per cent of the increase in retail prices.

Ms. Zawel, as she prefers to be known, blasted the department in her response, saying, "Retail prices are merely the noxious tip of an iceberg whose foundation has been systematically ignored by myopic decision-makers."

Most states now pay up to a maximum of 26 weeks of unemployment benefits. The proposal now pending in Congress would increase the benefit period to 39 weeks, with the federal government paying half the cost.

In a related development, the Labor Department said it is studying a proposal to bring nearly seven million more workers under the unemployment insurance system.

Department officials said Monday that they had been preparing the proposal for several months but said the recent sharp rise in unemployment made the need for change more urgent.

An estimated 12 million employed workers are not covered by the system.

Warmer weather is forecast to return to Ohio tonight and Wednesday as a high pressure area moves across the state, bringing a flow of southerly air to Ohio.

Lows Wednesday morning should range from the 20s to around 30, in contrast to today's readings, which dipped as low as 12 degrees at Cincinnati.

Highs Wednesday afternoon should reach the upper 30s and the 40s across the state.

The high brought clearing skies and an end to snow flurries over the state and allowed northeastern Ohio to escape the brunt of the second snowstorm to buffet the area in a week.

A chance of snow flurries Thursday, fair Friday and Saturday. Highs in the 30s north and low 40s. Lows in the 30s early Thursday and in the 20s Friday and Saturday.

Bumper sticker means nothing

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. DuVal of Cincinnati has discovered you can't tell a driver by his bumper sticker.

Mrs. DuVal recently pulled up behind another automobile at a traffic light in Hamilton, and noticed the bumper sticker on the back of the vehicle read: "Honk, if You Love Jesus."

She honked.

The driver, apparently forgetting the saintly sentiments, turned and gave Mrs. DuVal an obscene gesture.

report notes at the start that "so much of this is hearsay I cannot vouch for its ultimate truth."

The report said the names of John N. Mitchell, Kenneth W. Parkinson and Robert C. Mardian were given to Ehrlichman among others as participants in the effort to keep the Watergate burglars from talking.

Mitchell, Parkinson and Mardian, along with H. R. Haldeman and Ehrlichman are being tried on charges that they conspired to obstruct justice.

Ehrlichman began his testimony by denying any knowledge of the planning for the Watergate break-in or attempts to spirit a participant out of the country. He also said he took no steps to suppress the investigation of Watergate.

acknowledgements by administration officials that voluntary conservation efforts have proven unsatisfactory.

The hearings were conducted as seminars with witnesses and federal officials both asking and answering questions. Morton was asked by a witness whether his goal of leasing 10 million offshore acres in 1975 for oil development could be realized in view of acknowledged shortages of drilling equipment.

Morton said such acreage could at least be explored to find out where there is petroleum. He then pointed out that offshore drilling platforms are built in shipyards and thus are competing for space with merchant vessel construction. Such shipbuilding already is subsidized by the federal government and is vying for still more congressional support.

"It might be necessary to invoke the Defense Production Act to make sure we have the equipment to do the job," Morton said, referring to the President's authority to allocate critical materials and facilities and to the need to build offshore oil platforms.

Morton did not elaborate on the idea. Kenna later warned that the administration's "Project Independence" push to increase U.S. domestic energy production by 1985 would add to other industry growth demands on investment capital.

Both Morton and Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent emphasized that the energy crisis was not a problem of supply, but of paying for oil and other fuels.

"There's no shortage," Dent said. "It's basically an economic problem."

Among those who would be brought under coverage are some 5.3 million state and municipal government employees, 600,000 farm workers and 340,000 of the 1.3 million domestic workers.

Viet losses top 2,000

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnamese casualties rose to more than 2,000 today on the fifth day of intensified fighting, the Saigon command reported.

The command said 325 government troops have been killed, 1,374 wounded and 320 are missing, most of them in the Mekong Delta, since the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong stepped up their attacks.

The government claimed 1,800 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed, many of them by air and artillery strikes.

Stock prices post gains

NEW YORK (AP) — Expectations of an expansive turn in government policies on the economy touched off a broad advance in the stock market today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 10.56 at 590.50, and gainers outpaced losers by 5-to-2 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the market was responding to several indications that the government might be shifting its primary economic aim from combating inflation to counteracting the economic slump—among them the cut in the Federal Reserve's discount rate late last week.

On the Americann Stock Exchange, the market-value index rose .17 to 58.43.

Oil, oil-drilling and service and chemical issues were generally strong.

The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks advanced .61 to 35.31.

town in the delta, and the command reported 15 government troops killed, 68 wounded and scores missing. It claimed 178 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed in the fighting 115 miles south of Saigon.

Two other district towns came under attack today and heavy fighting was reported around the provincial capital of Moc Hoa, near the Cambodian border 50 miles west of Saigon.

Military analysts say the Communists are trying to wear down the South Vietnamese army, which already has been hit hard by casualties and reductions in U.S. military aid which have forced it to conserve ammunition.

Senate votes on Rocky

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller's nomination as the nation's 41st vice president is heading toward certain Senate confirmation.

An overwhelming number of Senators are prepared to vote today in favor of the nomination despite the decision of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., to oppose confirmation.

Only two other senators — one Democrat and one Republican — announced their decisions to vote against the former New York governor. Minority Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., predicted that no more than a "baker's dozen" will oppose the nomination.

All other senators who issued statements or spoke Monday during a slow and formal debate on the Senate floor said they would vote in favor of the nomination, which has been pending since Aug. 21.

The Rockefeller nomination still must be voted on by the House Judiciary Committee and the House of Representatives.

In a letter to President Ford, Goldwater said he had originally expected to support the nomination. But Goldwater said testimony before the Senate Rules Committee and House Judiciary Committee had changed his mind.

"It is now apparent to me that Mr. Rockefeller did in effect use his own personal money to accomplish the purchase of political power," Goldwater said.

Goldwater's remarks were echoed in the Senate debate by Sen. William L. Scott, R-Va.

General Assembly wraps up session

By PERRY SMITH

Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 110th General Assembly was to officially call it quits today in an informal session expected to attract no more than a handful of legislators and fewer spectators.

The lawmakers leave town for the final time this session finally assured of the leadership in the 111th, where Democrats will control both houses but not the governorship.

Assistant House Minority Leader Sen. Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, was selected for the second time since Nov. 20 Monday to lead majority Democrats in the Senate.

He was picked unanimously at the caucus called by current minority leader Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, who had been a candidate for the job himself.

Ocasek beat Calabrese to the punch in November, calling his own caucus and winning endorsement from 17 of the 21 Democrats who will be in the next Senate. At the Calabrese caucus, Ocasek got 18 votes, including that of Calabrese.

Both claimed their were no hard feelings and Ocasek said Calabrese, whom he called a longtime friend, would get a committee chairmanship.

In the House, Speaker A. G. Lancione's assistant, Speaker Pro Tem Vernal Riffe Jr., will replace Lancione when the new legislature convenes Jan. 6. Like Calabrese, Lancione has been promised key assistant leadership positions.

The skeleton session was scheduled at 11 a.m. in the Senate and 1:30 p.m. in the House. Only two legislators and a clerk are needed in either house to put the session into history.

The handful of legislators will mainly be carrying out provisions of a resolution passed earlier in a full session—that the 110th General Assembly adjourn "sine die" Dec. 10. Democrats next session will hold a 21-12 margin in the Senate and a 59-40 margin in the House. They currently have a 58-41 House margin while Republicans control the Senate 17-16.

Senate Democrats were to caucus this afternoon to select committee chairmen. There were indications that

Schlesinger tells NATO of arms pact

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The Soviet Union is strengthening its armed forces faster than United States and its North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies, a top British admiral said today.

"The gap between our conventional capabilities and those of the Warsaw Pact is widening," said British Admiral of the Fleet Sir Peter Hill-Norton, chairman of the NATO military committee, at the opening of a two-day meeting of defense ministers.

Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger, the U.S. representative at the annual NATO winter meeting, was speaking today on Washington's assessment of what the Vladivostok agreement between President Ford and Leonid I. Brezhnev means to the alliance.

Adm. Hill-Norton, whose job corresponds to that of the chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, also criticized waste in defense spending due to "duplication of scientific effort, misuse of talent, (and) waste of manpower."

The ministers met with figures before them that showed the United States was still spending more than all the other 13 allies combined on NATO defense.

Schlesinger was speaking twice today, in the Nuclear Planning Group which works out guidelines for the tactical use of nuclear weapons.

Kiwanians learn of Swiss mode of living

Members of the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club became acquainted with the Swiss mode of living during their regular weekly dinner meeting Monday at the Lafayette Inn. Member George Lundberg and his wife related the experiences of their recent trip to Switzerland.

Lundberg noted that the six million residents of Switzerland have never been engaged in a national or global war, yet they can mobilize a highly trained army of a million men in 48 hours.

He added that unemployment, slums, juvenile delinquency and adult crime are almost non-existent in the Alptopped land. He also said that the average person pays only about a 10 per cent income tax.

The Lundbergs brought slides of the principal cities, Zurich, Luzern and Berne, as well as the two major mountain peaks, the matterhorn and Mount Blanc, of the Swiss Alps.

Prior to the conclusion of the meeting, President Guy Foster called attention to the club's Christmas party Dec. 16. Each family is to bring two covered dishes and its own tableware.

The organization will provide the meat dishes and drinks.

The party will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church. Ken Hughes and Dick Maddux are co-chairmen of the event.

Of all timed sports, the briefest is the quick draw in shooting in which times of .06 of a second have been recorded.

10 long minutes of long distance. Just $2.60. (85¢ for the first three minutes, 25¢ for each additional one, plus tax.)

10 long minutes as far as California at our everyday low price. And the closer to home, the less it costs.

For example, 10 minutes in New York is just $2.00. Kansas City, $2.05, Denver, $2.10, Pittsburgh, $1.60, Phoenix, $2.50, plus tax.

All you have to remember to get 10 minutes at these prices is to dial the call without operator assistance, after 5 pm. (It's even less after 11 pm, all day Saturday and until 5 pm Sunday.)

Now, all you have to do is think of what to say for 10 minutes. Happily, if you're like most people, that's no problem.

New PLO status

The United Nations' granting of observer status to the Palestine Liberation Organization was an affront to good sense and decency, yet in several respects this was a momentous event. For one thing it demonstrates that, like it or not, terrorism pays in political terms.

Had the PLO not indulged in terrorism against Israel over the past several years, it would not have been so well received in a U.N. numerically dominated by anti-Israel nations. Bitterly ironic though this may seem, there can be little doubt that it is true.

A second conclusion to be drawn from the PLO's new U.N. status is more positive. Shortly after Yasir Arafat's speech to the world body, another ranking member of the PLO executive committee suggested that the PLO's heightened status might prompt a change in its policy toward Israel.

This spokesman said that "military operations" — which is to say, more terrorism — might continue against Israel. But he also said the organization as a whole would increasingly emphasize political rather than military activity. The proof of this pudding will be in the eating, but there is some reason to expect such a shift in the Palestine Liberation Organization's course.

Leaders of the PLO may shrewdly feel that their political victory in gaining acceptance at the U.N. would be undermined if large-scale terrorist activities were continued. Also, it is noteworthy that within the United Nations the PLO representatives will now come into frequent contact with delegates from member countries. Scholars have found that such interactions with international bodies tend to mute conflict. One can hope that this effect will come into play.

The PLO status at the U.N. is therefore a mixed blessing. We continue to maintain that this extranational group should not have been accorded special status, in particular since this was won through terrorism. It must nevertheless be acknowledged that some good may come of what has happened.

Congress doesn't want leadership

The air is heavy with complaints about the lack of leadership in Washington.

Capital city columnists criticize President Ford for being out of town when there are tremendous domestic issues to settle. The proponents of a whopping Federal gasoline tax grumble because the White House refuses to send a demand to Congress for a draconian energy conservation bill.

And there are those who are girding to upset the Ford-Kissinger-Brezhnev pre-SALT II decision to put an admittedly high ceiling on future missile and bomber plane production.

The judgment on Ford's hesitance about coming up with a tough series of demands may be true but, coming from a Congress and a press corps that is so heavily partisan, it is quite irrelevant. The point is that neither the Congress nor any of the "new" journalists would accept leadership from the White House anyway.

The so-called liberals have one unifying thought, and that is to rid the executive branch of Republican control in 1976. Unless a dreadful crisis develops overnight — say with the onset of a new war in the Middle East complicated by a renewal of the Arab oil embargo — the discomfiture of Jerry Ford will be the be-all and end-all of Congressional strategy once the newcomers are ensconced on Capitol Hill after New Year's Day.

The pattern is already plain in the behavior of the present lame-duck Congress, which is failing to give Ford a break despite his personal friendship with Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield and House Speaker Carl Albert.

There was no sensible reason for stringing out the Nelson Rockefeller hearings through all these weeks. Rocky was never this column's choice for the Vice Presidency, but surely a Republican President has the right to pick his own running mate from his own party without encountering three months of hypocritical and pettifogging delay.

The first John D. Rockefeller was bitterly criticized the University of Chicago, and he brought his son, John D. Jr., up to be the nation's Number One benefactor). Nevertheless, Ivy Lee, the pioneer U.S. public relations adviser, had to steer John D. into giving all those shiny dimes away to combat the skinflint image that our first scientific oil refiner had created for himself by making a mammoth fortune. The Rockefeller grandchildren got the message: It is the duty of the rich in a democracy to spread money around.

Nelson Rockefeller can't possibly spend his income, so why shouldn't he share his wealth with his friends? The Democratic partisans who have so endlessly probed the obvious (Do we need an audit to tell us that all Rockefellers are rich?) never once admitted that generosity in a wealthy man is a trait to be admired. They have had only one thing in mind: To discredit a possible 1976 Ford-Rockefeller ticket even before a Republican nominating convention has been held.

Jerry Ford's program for fighting inflation was a fairly timid one. So the President has been open to criticism for failure to come up with a drastic anti-spending program. The truth is, however, that Congress is unwilling to cooperate with the White House on even the mildest of retrenchment measures.

Ford isn't going to get affirmative action on his proposal to put an additional tax on over-$15,000-a-year incomes. After taking the pulse of Capital Hill, the President had to renege on his idea of cutting the budget below the $300 billion mark. Congress wants to fight recession, not inflation.

The desire to head off a depression is understandable, but the Keynesian spending measures that were appropriate in 1932, when the problem was to raise the price level, are not at all appropriate to a heavily inflationary era which can't stand any more additions to the prices which consumers must pay for goods and services.

A heavily Democratic Congress is in a position to take the leadership, if it only will, in stopping inflation and in giving us an energy policy that could hold the nations of the West together. The trouble is that Mike Mansfield and Carl Albert and, yes, Wilbur Mills are bereft of ideas. They will do all the wrong things, and then try to saddle Jerry Ford with the consequences.

So what is Jerry Ford's hope? It could be that in 1976 he will have to emulate the fighting Harry Truman of 1948 and go to the country with a denunciation of a Congress that knows only one thing, that being how to pile inflation on inflation by creating new stacks of paper money.

Avoid a tendency toward unconventionality. Don't join those who are indiscreet or you could become involved in situations to be later regretted.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)
All things may not go exactly as you desire, but you will find many advantages, anyway — if you look carefully in all areas.

YOU BORN TODAY have a great love for your fellowman, and your tolerance and generosity are outstanding. In this connection, however, you should use care in selecting the recipients of your altruism, since there are many who would take advantage of your good nature. But to the more morally inclined, you are a constant source of inspiration and example — which is why you would make an excellent teacher or preacher. Extremely versatile, however, you could succeed in almost any other field of your choice — especially in business leadership, the law, music, journalism or architecture.

Meat labeling aids consumers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— High prices aside, has the problem of choosing meat in your supermarket been simpler lately? It should have been.

Under a recent Ohio law, the variety of labels on different cuts of meat were cut down from almost 700 to just three.

Under the state's new uniform meat-labeling standards, packages of meat in retail stores may now have only three basic points:

- The kind of meat — beef, pork, veal or lamb.
- The primal or wholesale cut — rib, chuck, loin, round, to say where on the animal the meat came from.
- The retail cut — such as top blade roast, spareribs or porterhouse steak, which tells the buyer what part of the primal cut the meat comes from.

Retailers still can add such display names as Delmonico steak or Patio chops if he wants to do so, but he is required to have only the three basic points.

Those basic requirements give customers a reference point regardless of what store he is shopping in.

The Ohio Department of Agriculture division of foods began inspecting meat labels Sept. 30, the day the new standards went into effect.

The new rules actually were signed last April and agriculture officials began working closely with retail stores to help make the changes as orderly and easy as possible.

Master imprint labels have been in short supply and in some cases stores are allowed to continue using old labels. But they must have proof that the new master imprints are on order.

Customers can still find "hamburger" and "ground beef" labels. But now they have a better definition of what the package contains. Until the new rules became effective the two terms were used interchangeably.

The new definition states that "hamburger" can contain beef fat, which is added to lower the percent of lean meat.

"Ground beef," must be just that — chunks of meat with no fat added.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

If that were a wig, it would've flipped

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are having an argument and don't know whom else to ask, so you are nominated.

My husband says that Arthur Burns, Chairman Of the Federal Reserve Board, wears a wig. I say that's his own hair. Who's right?

C. IN DETROIT

DEAR C.: You are. If Arthur Burns wore a wig, he'd have flipped it long ago.

DEAR ABBY: Why do so many people look down on cocktail waitresses?

When I went home for Thanksgiving, my mother asked me to tell the relatives that I work in an office. (I'm a cocktail waitress.)

Abby, I am a 23-year-old unmarried woman and I've been on my own since I was 18. I still send a part of every paycheck home because my father is too sick to work, and I'm the oldest of six.

I've never been into drugs and I don't let guys use me like some of those so-called "respectable" government girls who hang out at the bars and go home with the first guy who buys them a drink.

Will you please do me (and lots of other respectable girls) a big favor and print this with your opinion?

DECENT IN D.C.

DEAR DECENT: Cocktail waitresses are entitled to the same consideration and respect due to anyone who performs honest work for a living. The person gives dignity to the job—not the other way 'round.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from the 16-year-old girl who feels herself better qualified to rear children than "old" people of 30 or 40.

When I was a scant two years older than this girl, I had a child. I was unmarried at the time.

I put the baby up for adoption. It was my own decision, and no one tried to influence me.

Now that I am mature and happily married, I can't begin to tell you how happy I am that I MADE THAT CHOICE. It would have been unfair of me to have taken an innocent infant with me through the "growing up" process which took place between then and now.

I agree with you that having a child is a wonderful experience—but only when a woman is mature. How many teen-age girls do you think have this degree of maturity?

My parents taught me things when I was growing up that only an "old" 30-year-old parent could know.

LUCKY

DEAR LUCKY: Thank you for giving others the benefit of your experience. Very few unmarried teen-age mothers are sufficiently mature to handle motherhood.

DEAR ABBY: I read with some amusement about the girl whose boyfriend told her she couldn't get pregnant because he had been "injured" playing football.

My husband told me the same story—only he was injured playing baseball. We are now the proud parents of triplets!

Two defendants sentenced here

After being convicted of grand theft by a Fayette County Common Pleas Court jury Tuesday, Benny W. Laytard, 25, Rt. 5, Washington C. H., was sentenced Monday to a maximum term of five years in prison by Judge Evelyn W. Coffman.

Another Washington C. H. resident, Robert F. Angus Jr., 18, of 713 Oak Dr., had been placed on probation for three years after pleading guilty last week to a charge of vandalism at Miami Trace High School.

The judge ordered that Laytard be sent to the Chillicothe Correctional Institute, Chillicothe, to begin a one to five year term.

A jury of six men and six women found the defendant guilty of the theft of a three-speed bicycle from the home of the Rev. Gerald Wheat, 220 N. Hinde St. The incident occurred in May and an earlier trial had resulted in a hung jury.

Since Laytard had previously been convicted of auto theft, the charge of any subsequent theft offense is a felony, according to Ohio law.

JUDGE COFFMAN presided over the two-day trial, but elected not to impose sentence immediately after the return of the verdict.

Fayette County prosecuting attorneys James A. Kiger and John H. Roszmann presented the state's evidence. Attorney Robert L. Simpson provided counsel for the defendant. The jury deliberated for some five hours before returning its findings.

Angus, who was charged with vandalism at Miami Trace High School following the Miami Trace - Washington C. H. football game in November, had waived indictment by the grand jury and waived his right to a jury trial when he appeared before Judge Coffman last week.

Accompanied by his attorney, Otis R. Hess, Angus listened as Roszmann recounted the circumstances surrounding the charge and then allowed the court to determine his guilty on the evidence presented, acknowledging that it was true.

Judge Coffman sentenced him to a prison term of six months to two years, but then suspended the sentence and placed the defendant on three years probation.

Phillip K. Moore, 18, of 323 N. Hinde St., the other adult charged in connection with the incident was freed when a preliminary hearing in Municipal Court failed to reveal sufficient evidence against him. He had also been represented by Hess.

Five juveniles who were charged in the same incident admitted their involvement at hearings in Juvenile Court. Two have been placed in the custody of the Ohio Youth Commission by Judge Rollo M. Marchant. Disposition of the other three juvenile cases is still pending.

New real estate mortgages $1.7 million in November

New real estate mortgages totaling $1,768,178.21 were recorded in Fayette County during November, a decrease when compared with the previous month's figure of $2,532,014.09.

Mortgage releases totaled $438,880.39. Mortgage releases in October were $382,479.80.

The new mortgage figure includes $652,291.60 and 36 lots and other platted properties; $315,886.61 and 331.22 acres of farm real estate in 16 transactions, and a commercial mortgage of $800,000.

Released during the month were $219,837.39 in mortgages on 26 lots and $219,043 in liens on 233.19 acres of farm property in 14 transactions, according to the monthly report prepared by Mrs. Lorie M. Armbrust, Fayette County recorder.

A TOTAL of 69 deeds were recorded in November, 33 of them changing title to 3,855.70 acres of farm property. There were three certificates of transfer for lots.

Other instruments recorded in November were:

Three right of ways and easements, three cemetery deeds, three land contracts, four open-end mortgages, one supplemental mortgage indenture, two mortgage assignments, 15 recorded mortgage releases, five partial recorded mortgage releases, three leases, one recorded lease cancellation, one unemployment lien, one mechanic's lien release, three power of attorney, three trust agreements, four soldier's discharges and 103 financing statements.

On registered land there were one certificate of title, one certificate of title cancellation and one mortgage release recorded, according to Mrs. Armbrust's monthly report.

Compton Creek project is OK'd

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners approved a petition by Dwight Duff, 5809 Washington - Waterloo Road, and others for improvement of the Compton Creek at the first ditch hearing Monday.

Fayette County engineer Charles P. Wagner submitted to the commissioners a preliminary estimate of $27,760.65 for total cost of the improvement.

The commissioners set Feb. 3 as the date for receiving the county engineer's maps and profiles on the ditch project.

In other business conducted Monday, the commissioners discussed the 1975 budget for the Fayette Progressive School with Mrs. Frank Weade, chairman of the Fayette County Board of Mental Retardation, but took no action. The Fayette Progressive School is facing increased budgetary problems with the recent defeat of a .65-mill operating levy at the Nov. 5 election.

Weed killer boosts alfalfa

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio agriculture officials say tests of a new herbicide over a two-year period have increased alfalfa yields up to a ton per acre.

Dr. John Walker of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center said fall application of the weed killer pronamide doubled the percentage of alfalfa in the first cutting the following season, compared to untreated areas, or those treated with another type of herbicide.

Dr. Walker presented his findings at the North Central Weed Control Conference last week in St. Paul, Minn. He said pronamide treatment produced almost a ton more alfalfa per acre.

Lost hunter again search object

BURLINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A new search has been called in the week-old disappearance of a 20-year-old hunter, after two men reported sighting the missing man the day he was last seen. Steve Pierson of Burlington and Jim Webster of Elsmere told Boone County Police they saw a man running in the rugged backwoods of Big Bone Lick State Park last Tuesday.

Pierson and Webster said they found two socks, apparently dropped by the man they saw.

Police said the new search would begin today, possibly on horseback.

Pierson and Webster said that after the man saw them he bolted away, wheeled around, turning his rifle in their direction, then joined an older man.

Boone County Police Lt. Don Stamper said Nichols is on probation for a disorderly conduct charge and may fear his probation will be revoked if he is convicted of hunting deer out of season.

Lottery sales bring $15.2 million

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Ohio's lottery ticket sales will produce $15.2 million for the state's coffers by year's end, based on estimated gross sales of about $38 million, a lottery spokesman says.

James Skelly, lottery public relations director, said Monday the lottery has been returning to the state about 40 per cent of sales while giving away hundreds of thousands of dollars since the lottery began last Aug. 9.

Meanwhile, Skelly said, the "Christmas Bonus" prize system has boosted ticket sales that had slipped more than one million below what had been the 4.5 million weekly average.

Sales in recent weeks were about 3.3 million tickets, Skelly said. He said a survey taken two days after last week's announcement of the holiday bonus indicated sales had climbed to 100 per cent to 150 per cent of average.

Ticket sales always slump during holidays, Skelly and operators of other state lotteries say.

Despite the decline, Ohio is second only to Michigan among the 13 states operating lotteries, Skelly added.

Besides contending with the need to plump sales efforts because of the holidays, Skelly also said he was "going bananas" trying to deal with the weekly problem of telling Clevelanders the new winning numbers during the city's printed news blackout. Neither of Cleveland's daily newspapers has published in nearly five weeks because of labor disputes that include the strike against the Plain Dealer that began Nov. 1.

After using helicopters, town criers, sandwich boards and bikini-clad beauties, Skelly decided to have a pair of gorillas give away a pickup truckload of bananas. The truck with gorillas in the back will tour downtown

Cleveland after this week's winning numbers are selected Thursday in Mansfield.

The Christmas Bonus system Skelly credited with perking up sales involves addition of two double numbers to the tickets. Matching the double set of three-digit numbers in the upper left of a ticket means a $1,000 prize for the holder. Matching the double set on the upper right of a ticket wins $2,000. Other prizes based on the regular five sets of numbers remain the same.

Skelly, who said the year-end sales projections were "guesstimate figures, and they are conservative," added that no lottery ever equals its first-week sales.

"That's always the biggest in history," he said. Ohio lottery fans bought nearly seven million tickets during the 10-day initial sales period. Sales plunged in the next period—also typical, lottery operators say—but increased during three subsequent weeks, Skelly said.

Skelly added that Ohioans spend more per capita for lottery tickets than do residents of any of the other states except Michigan.

Theft reports, vandalism incident eyed by police

A vandalism, two larcenies and an auto theft were incidents reported by Washington C.H. police today. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported a stolen car antenna.

Two quarter-inch thick plate glass windows measuring 5 feet by 8 feet in the front of Lord's Womens' Apparel shop at 221 E. Court St., were cracked sometime between 9 p.m. Saturday and 8:30 a.m. Monday, police reported.

Five rings valued at $30, were taken from a jewelry box in a bedroom at the Linda Satterfield residence at 1024 Center St., sometime between Thanksgiving Day and Dec. 4, police reported today.

A coat belonging to Fred Cook, Bloomingburg, was stolen from the coat check at the Terrace Lounge, Main Street, between 10 p.m. and 11:10 p.m. Monday. Police said the coat value was $65.

A car owned by Norbert Kent, 720 Dayton Ave., was loaned by Kent to three juveniles at 3 p.m. Sunday, after they told him they'd like to use it for two or three hours.

Kent reported the missing car to police at 9 p.m. Monday - 30 hours later.

A 42-inch car antenna was stolen from a car owned by Ralph Jordan, Jeffersonville, while the auto was parked at Bowland Lanes, CCC-Highway-W, Monday evening, sheriff's deputies reported.

Search continues for two burglars

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson and Sheriff's Sgt. John L. Emrick trudged around in a mile and a half of snow-covered fields Sunday evening for three hours tracking two men responsible for the burglary of the Doctor Charles Pheanis residence on Ohio 41-S, one-half mile south of the Fayette - Highland county line.

Sheriff Thompson explained a call had been received from the Highland County Sheriff's Department requesting assistance at 8:47 p.m. Sunday, after Dr. Pheanis returned to his home and noticed two men flee. The burglars had absconded with an undetermined amount of jewelry and their tracks in the snow headed them toward Fayette County.

Sheriff Thompson and Sgt. Emrick reported the tracks ended where a car had been parked on Ohio 41 and Highland County Sheriff Walter Reffitt and the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, of London, are continuing the investigation.

Prayer breakfast draws 55 students

"The Spirit of Christmas" was the topic used by the Rev. Charles J. Richmond at the meditation period for the teen prayer breakfast at the South Side Church of Christ Tuesday morning.

Fifty-five students and teachers were in attendance. Two seniors from WSHS, Gretchen Owen and Mary Ann Rudduck, led the group in singing Christmas carols. Kevin Blair, senior at WSHS, offered prayer for the food.

The teen devotional speaker was unable to attend, so after breakfast Vic Slutz, minister of the New Holland Church of Christ, shared some thoughts on "What Are You Looking For in Christmas?"

He said, "Don't just look for a babe in arms or in a manger, but look to His sacrifice at Calvary." The next prayer breakfast Dec. 17 will be the final breakfast for 1974.

Council studies village eyesores

MILLEDGEVILLE — Trash, junk and litter in the Milledgeville area were once again discussed by the village council during its monthly meeting Saturday.

Mayor Ronnie Anderson announced that the village will again have to file charges against those persons who refuse to remove unsightly collections of junk from their property.

One man has been fined in Washington C.H. Municipal Court for violations of the village eyesore ordinance, and the mayor said similar charges will be levied against individuals who have not cleared properties by the first of the year.

In the only other action, the council paid routine bills, including the councilmen's salaries.

Suspended jail sentence meted

A Circleville man received a suspended jail sentence in Municipal Court Monday after he pleaded guilty to a charge of shoplifting.

Thomas J. Tranner, 24, Circleville, was sentenced to three months in jail and fined $500 on a charge of shoplifting $11.46 of miscellaneous items from Seaway, Inc., by acting Judge Omar A. Schwart.

Judge Schwart suspended the sentence and $450 of the fine on condition of two years good conduct.

Malcomb J. MacDonald, 60, South Solon, was fined $100 by Judge Schwart after he pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct by intoxication.

Public meeting set in Xenia to consider U.S. 35 project

XENIA — The Transportation Coordinating Committee (TCC) of Montgomery and Greene counties will hold a public meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, December 11 to discuss the relocation of U.S. 35 from Xenia to Washington C.H. The meeting will include discussions of the project's history, proposed engineering designs, environmental effects, and citizen's concerns. It will be held in the Greene County Courthouse, Xenia.

TCC is a regional agency with responsibility for transportation development plans in Greene and Montgomery counties. As such, all federal funds for highway planning and construction must be approved by TCC. Citizen's needs and desires influence the distribution of federal funds.

John Fay, citizen coordinator for the regional agency, expressed hope that this public meeting will provide a convenient opportunity for citizen's involvement in planning a major highway improvement.

The communities in eastern Greene County and western Fayette County recognized the area's need for a limited access highway more than ten years ago. In 1964, the state of Ohio published a "preliminary engineering report" recommending that U.S. 35 be realigned from Xenia in Greene County through Chillicothe in Ross County. A similar proposal became part of the Regional Transportation Committee's (the predecessor to TCC) "Regional Transportation Plan, Volume II". Subsequently, a detailed location study identified four alternate alignments, including the choice of not building a new road.

AFTER THE alternatives were publicly reviewed at a hearing on April 28, 1970, the cities, townships and counties involved agreed on the location for the highway. The Federal Highway Administration approved the location on July 31, 1970. Presently engineers are studying various construction designs. Also a study of the highway's environmental impact, was performed. At Wednesday's meeting the public will review these documents and attempt to re-evaluate and reaffirm, if appropriate, the need for a new U.S. 35.

One environmental concern generating controversy is the future status of two historical sites near the new highway. Some historians from the Montgomery County and the Ohio Historical societies revealed their intention to nominate for classification as an historical district an area including the Ballard Road covered bridge, which lies approximately 200 feet north of the proposed highway, and the Charles Dean farmhouse, which lies approximately 150 feet south of the proposed highway. This petition could result in an additional delay of 3 - 10 years in the construction of the highway. The first location study lasted for more than three years. It is not unusual for an environmental study to require two to three years of research, and red tape delays for government approval of each action are significant.

To construct the highway between the covered bridge and the farmhouse, or to establish an historical district, forcing a relocation of the highway, is one of several environmental questions that the public will be asked to consider at Wednesday's meeting.

A second important concern is the highly unacceptable accident rate along the existing route, especially west of I-71. Hills, curves and the generally poor physical conditions have resulted in approximately three fatalities a year on the short stretch (less than 30 miles) between Xenia and Washington C.H.

The Ohio Historical Society will meet in Dayton on Friday, Dec. 13, to consider nominating the covered bridge and the farmhouse as an historical district. The results of the public meeting held on Wednesday, Dec. 11 will be presented to the members of the Ohio Historical Society.

Daley seeks re-election as mayor

CHICAGO (AP) — Richard J. Daley will be running again for mayor of Chicago, an office he has held since 1955.

And, as usual, he predicted "a great victory."

Daley appeared Monday before the Democratic party committeemen representing the city's 50 wards and declared, "I will be a candidate for re-election."

It ended months of speculation that because of a mild stroke he suffered in May, because of his age, and because of the indictment and conviction of many top Democrat aides and friends, Daley would choose this time to announce his retirement.

Daley, 72, will be the regular party candidate for mayor in next February's primary election.

For the first time as mayor, Daley

faces a primary battle.

Independent Alderman William S. Singer, has been campaigning for the primary since October 1973. And four other Democrats have announced they are candidates: former State's Atty. Edward V. Hanrahan, state Sen. Richard Newhouse, attorney E. Duke McNeil and businessman Edward Allen.

Republicans have not selected a candidate.

Court nixes disclosure case review

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time this year, the Supreme Court has refused to review a state requirement that public officials must disclose their personal finances.

By a 7 to 2 vote Monday, the court let stand a decision of the Illinois Supreme Court upholding a disclosure order by Gov. Daniel Walker.

The court declined last spring to consider a challenge to a sweeping public disclosure law passed as an initiative by the voters of Washington State.

The court did agree to add these three cases to its docket:

—An appeal from a ruling of a New York federal court that states may not reduce a family's welfare grant merely because there is a "lodger" in the home. The lower court said such a rule unconstitutionally assumes, without proof, that the lodger is helping with the rent or that the family has more room than it needs.

—An argument by federal prosecutors that they should be allowed to cross-examine criminal defendants about the fact that they asserted their constitutional right to remain silent under police questioning. Two lower courts have reached opposite conclusions on the point.

—A dispute between the federal government and the state of Alaska over oil leases on 2,500 acres of submerged land in Cook Inlet. The U.S. Court of Appeals in San Francisco has approved state plans to issue the leases.

Mustine named president of two-state Hi-Y group

David Mustine, son of Mr. and Mrs. C.W. (Bud) Mustine, 609 Charlotte Court, was elected president of the Ohio-West Virginia Hi-Y council during the 51st annual Hi-Y fall conference held at Jackson's Mill, near Weston, W. Va.

Mustine, a senior at Washington Senior High School, and eight other WSHS students attended the annual conference along with over 300 high school students representing Hi-Y clubs throughout Ohio and West Virginia.

Also attending from WSHS were Kevin Blair, Jim Smith, Rory Souther, Tim O'Flynn, Hugh Patton, Mike Hughes, Doug Maddux and Mike Pope. George Shoemaker is the club advisor.

Other Hi-Y council officers elected by the membership were Jenny Taylor, Williamson, W. Va., vice president; Barbara Hill, Matewan, W. Va., chaplain; and Ann Reynolds, Martinsburg, W. Va., secretary.

The council will work during the year in developing the Hi-Y movement and to bring about a unity throughout the two-state area. Workshops were held for advisors, council representatives, club officers as well as committee chairmen. The workshops were designed to focus on club programming and effective operations of each local Hi-Y club.

Participants were involved in a "Hi-Y Stimulation Game" of small discussion groups with club members throughout the two-state area. The conference was designed to provide clubs an opportunity to share their ideas, while the program sessions offered club members an experience in club program development and in practicing and understanding the operation of Hi-Y. Club members involved themselves in learning new tools of club organization and planning.

AP changes reported

NEW YORK (AP)—Three major administrative assignments in key domestic bureaus of The Associated Press were announced Monday by Wes Gallagher, president and general manager of the news cooperative.

Burl Osborne, 37, chief of bureau for Ohio since 1972, has been appointed assistant chief of bureau at Washington, D.C., which is the AP's largest bureau. He will assist Chief of Bureau Marvin Arrowsmith in directing the Washington news report.

Osborne succeeds Walter Mears, 39, who resigned to become chief of The Detroit News' Washington bureau.

James C. Lagier, 39, chief of bureau at San Francisco for Northern California, succeeds Osborne at Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state has released more than $2.5 million in disaster funds to help Xenia rebuild its downtown district and replenish its depleted budget.

A tornado caused extensive damage and heavy loss of life in the southwestern Ohio city last April.

The Ohio Controlling Board approved the Disaster Relief Grants on Monday after a last-minute addition to the agenda.

The watchdog agency released $1.14 million for the city's 25 per cent share in a federal urban renewal project to reshape the badly-damaged central business district.

The board also approved $640,000 for the city's operating budget and $611,766 for the city's 50 per cent match of a federal capital grants program that will permit improvements at an industrial park for relocated industries.

The city got $131,085 to match a grant from the federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation for work on Shawnee Park.

State Sen. Max Dennis, R-10 Wilmington, pushed the Xenia grants through, gaining board approval to waive a two-week waiting period for comments on the requests from state agencies and local planning boards.

In fact, because the move was unexpected and final papers were not ready, the money probably will not be technically released until the board's next meeting in two weeks.

The Controlling Board released $492,000 for improvements on a marina at Mosquito Lake State Park in Trumbull County, but deferred action on 14 requests from the Department of Transportation.

State Rep. Robert A. Nader, D-55 Warren, complained that the Mosquito Lake project had been unnecessarily delayed and asked that the other money be held up until the state begins the lake improvements.

In other action the controlling board: —Agreed to a $500,000 Operating Supplement Subsidy for the purchase of library materials at the Cleveland State University.

—Approved Department of Education requests for $66 million in school foundation money and $321,649 for the purchases of 61 school buses.

—Agreed to a Health Department request for $423,800 to enter into contracts with the Ohio Medical Advances Institute and the Ohio Foundation for Medical care to reform Medical Review Independent Professional Review functions at Ohio nursing homes.

—Approved the release of $433,744 to the Department of Mental Health for the state's share in the Holmes County Training Center and Workshop project.

—Approved a Mental Health request for $415,000 for repairs at the Cleveland Psychiatric Institute.

—Said yes to a Mental Health request for a $445,000 architect's fee for Dayton Residence Center for the Mentally Retarded.

Man loses disorderly conduct case

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Ohio man who challenged a Cincinnati disorderly conduct ordinance had his latest case turned down Monday by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The court refused to consider the challenge by Stephen Karlan, who was convicted and fined $50 after the 1971 incident.

Karlan, then a law student at the University of Cincinnati, was arrested after a verbal exchange with a policeman. Karlan was working on a friend's car when police investigated.

The Supreme Court, over the dissent of Justice William O. Douglas, let stand without a hearing the conviction of Karlan, who was later denied entrance to the Ohio bar.

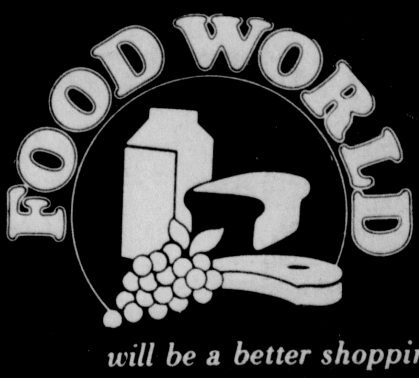

The ordinance makes it illegal to behave "in a noisy, boisterous, rude, insulting or other disorderly manner with the intent to abuse or annoy any person."

Karlan's conviction was upheld by the Ohio Supreme Court before the appeal to the nation's highest court.

Last March, the U.S. Supreme Court struck down a New Orleans ordinance making it unlawful "to curse or revile or use obscene or opprobrious language toward or in reference to" a police officer performing his duties.

Abortions financed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is financing abortions for up to 278,000 poor women each year at a cost of $50 million, says an official of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Tonight's viewing instructions call for anyone interested in good drama to watch "After the Fall" on NBC. If you'd prefer a bad amateur hour, catch "Out to Lunch" on ABC.

NBC's offering is an excellent television adaptation by Arthur Miller of his 1964 stage drama which some critics say was modeled on the life of the late Marilyn Monroe, Miller's second wife.

Although the show runs 2½ hours, it's worth every minute of your time if only for the brilliant performance of Faye Dunaway, cast as Maggie, a waiflike, insecure, not-too-bright receptionist who achieves fame as a singer, only to self-destruct at the pinnacle of success.

She's in fine acting company with Christopher Plummer, cast in the central role of Quentin, an anguished attorney who in successive steps becomes Maggie's adviser, lover and then husband.

The play basically is about the dilemma of a man who cannot bring himself to marry for a third time until he's confronted his past mistakes and decided whether he has the chance of a decent future.

So much for tonight's good viewing news. On the flip side of the channel is the bad news — ABC's "Out to Lunch" special.

This opus fantasizes about what might happen if Elliott Gould, Rita Moreno and delegates from "Sesame Street" and "The Electric Company" took over ABC while the network's regular employees were out at lunch.

After seeing it, I'm surprised ABC hasn't ordered its people to eat lunch at their desks every day from now on.

This show, by a new commercial subsidiary of the Children's Television Workshop, has skits intended to be somewhat satirical. They aren't. They're amateurish and waste both time and performing talent.

Bellefontaine schools shut; no money

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio (AP) — Schools in Bellefontaine closed today until Jan. 2, following the third defeat of a 5.9-mill levy which left them without operating funds, said Supt. Harold Martin.

Voters rejected the levy in May, August, and in the Nov. 5 general election. Under state law, a school system may put a levy request on the ballot only three times in a calendar year.

Because state law also dictates a school system may not end the year with a deficit, the alternative is to close for a few days in December, Martin said.

Bellefontaine is one of five Ohio districts forced to close late this year because of levy defeats.

In Doylestown, parents and citizens raised $41,000 to reopen schools in the Chippewa Local School District after voters rejected a 5.9-mill levy.

The Warren School District in Trumbull County closed last week, Wellington schools in Lorain County shut down Nov. 30 after a 9.6-mill levy failed, and Elyria schools, also in Lorain County, may suspend classes by Friday because voters turned down a 6.37-mill levy, according to Dr. Paul Spayde, assistant state superintendent of public instruction.

Martin said administrators will "regroup" and take the proposal to citizens again next spring. The school board will study the budget to see where it can be trimmed for 1975, he added.

The missed days will be made up in the spring, Martin said.

Lions in crucial situation

By LARRY WATTS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

"We have a tough road to hoe from this point on," admitted Washington coach Gary Shaffer as he prepares the Lions for South Central Ohio League contests with Unioto on Friday and Greenfield on Tuesday.

After posting a 1-3 record in their first four games, the invasion of the Shermans marks the first time the Lions will be able to pull their home uniforms out of the mothballs this season. Unioto is currently 1-2 overall and 0-2 in SCOL play, while Court House is 0-1 in the league.

"Unioto was one of the more physical teams we faced last year," Shaffer explained. "We will have to have a good all around defensive effort since they possess both a good inside and outside attack. We will have to concentrate on blocking off on rebounds and double teaming inside when the situation calls for it."

Unioto's hopes rest mainly on the shoulders of seniors Greg Alcorn and Steve Frey. Alcorn is the Tanks' 6-foot-8 pivotman, while Frey, who is a 5-foot-10 guard, can set the nets afire from 20 feet out. In the three games, Alcorn has pumped in 48 points and Frey has tallied 42 points.

Drawing the starting assignments at forwards are Jeff Throckmorton and Pat Kerns, both of whom are 6-foot-2. Throckmorton, who is averaging 10 points per game, is probably the coolest member of the Sherman quintet. Throckmorton possesses an exceptional eye from the outside, but does not drive well. Kerns, who is a strong rebounder, has collected most of his 23 points from the inside.

Greg Anderson, a 5-foot-10 transfer from Portsmouth, is the Shermans' other starting guard. Not known for his scoring ability, Anderson's key asset is his quick hands on defense.

With Unioto holding a great height advantage over Washington, the Lions will probably try to run as much as possible on the big boys. Shaffer said he will keep substituting in order to have a fresh lineup in the game at all times.

Greenfield is off to a roaring start with a 4-0 record overall and 2-0 showing in the SCOL. However, before the tigers host the Lions next Tuesday, they must face Circleville on Friday. Circleville is 5-0 for the year and also 2-0 in league competition.

"We usually have good games with McClain," reflected Shaffer. "Defensively, they play a very aggressive man-to-man and are very quick. On offense, the Tigers are very good passers and excellent shooters."

Bill Flynn, a 6-foot senior guard, and Steve Harvey, who is a 6-foot-3 junior forward, have been the most productive players in the Tigers' attack. Both players are averaging approximately 14 points per game this season.

Steve Willett, a 6-foot-3 senior center, is also averaging in double figures for the Tigers. He has collected 44 points for a 11 point average.

Rounding out the remainder of Greenfield's starting lineup will be Dave McCoy at forward and Joe Stewart at guard. McCoy, who is a 6-foot-2 senior, has pumped in 32 points. Stewart, a 5-foot-7 senior, has tossed in a total of 29 points.

Despite the 1-3 record, Shaffer feels his squad is continuing to show improvement. Any time a team has to open its schedule with its first four games away from home, the job is not going to be easy.

"Our overtime loss to Madison Plains was attributed to lack of leadership and poor shot selection," Shaffer indicated. "Although they outscored us 5-0 in the overtime, we took six shots from the field compared to their one. We only made three of 14 attempts from the field in the final 11 minutes. However, I think it was the type of game we would have won if it had been at our place."

Shaffer said most of the troubles with the team have all been little, but they are difficult to correct when the team is constantly on the road. The scoring has been pretty even, but ball control in the last three or four minutes has been a problem.

DOUG PHILLIPS

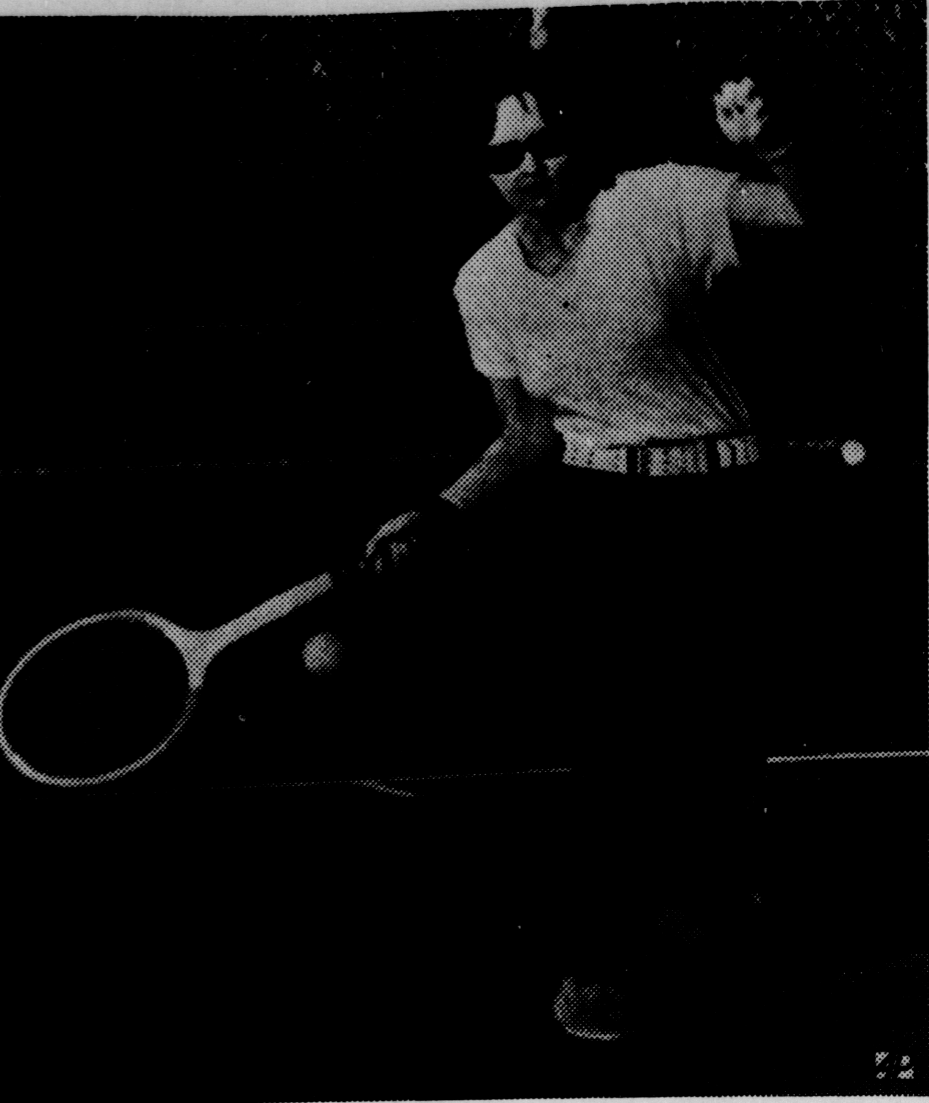

Led by 6-foot-3 junior forward Doug Phillips, the Lions have three players averaging in double figures. Phillips had an outstanding weekend against East Clinton and Madison Plains as he pumped in a total of 42 points and brought down 33 rebounds. In bringing his point total to 65, Shaffer thinks Phillips is now playing like he is capable of this year.

Chuck Byrd, who has been alternating between guard and forward, has tossed in 49 points. Senior guard Craig Shaffer, who is still being slowed up by a severely pulled thigh muscle, has tallied 46 points.

Freshman center John Denen is averaging just under double figures. Denen, who sat out part of the East Clinton game because of illness, has dropped in 39 points.

Depending on whether he wants to run with the ball or have more rebounding power, either Jerry Knisley or Ken Upthegrove will round out the starting lineup. Knisley, who is 5-foot-9, scored 12 points against East Clinton. Upthegrove, a sophomore, adds more rebounding strength to the attack with his 6-foot-2 frame.

"This is a do-or-die situation for both teams," remarked Shaffer as he looked ahead to Friday's game with Unioto. "With Circleville and Greenfield getting off to such a fast start, neither one of us can afford to suffer a defeat."

BLIND TENNIS PLAYER — Christell Ehrler, blind since she was five years old, plays tennis on the courts at Kentfield, Calif. The 19-year-old college student plays several times a week and even has beaten some of her opponents. She is able to follow the ball by the thud when it hits the court.

Redskins down Rams 23-17 to gain playoff berth

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Washington Redskins spoke in diplomatic chorus after they beat the Los Angeles Rams to gain a berth in the National Football League playoffs for the fourth straight year.

Nobody on the Redskins' team, after Monday night's 23-17 triumph on national television in Memorial Coliseum, was saying they beat the REAL Rams.

It's no small wonder. The Redskins represent the nation's capital, and diplomacy is one of their strong suits, or at least it was Monday night. They realized they likely will be in Los Angeles again to play the Rams, champions of the National Conference West, in the first round of the playoffs in two weeks.

"It could be," said Coach George Allen of Washington. "We still have a chance to win the division if the Giants beat St. Louis."

The Redskins, three-point underdogs against the Rams, now 9-4, boosted their record to 9-4 and tied St. Louis for the lead in the NFC East on the passing of Bill Kilmer, who hurled three touchdown passes in the second period to give Washington a 20-10 halftime lead.

Allen, who worried about the pulled leg muscle of place-kicker Mark Moseley and the badly bruised — and possibly broken — right leg of middle linebacker Harold McClinton, called it a "costly" victory.

The Rams lost for the first time in 13 home games since Chuck Knox took over from Tommy Prothro, Allen's successor.

Quarterback Kilmer and exRam defensive tackle Diron Talbert had nothing but praise for their potential playoff adversary.

Anderson's percentage proves tops

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A back injury has forced Cincinnati passing wizard Ken Anderson out of the Bengals final game of the season, but it won't stop him from having become the National Football League's most accurate passer in 29 years.

His 64.9 passing percentage is the best since Slingin' Sammy Baugh of Washington completed 70.3 per cent of his attempts in 1945.

Anderson was accidentally kicked in the back Sunday in a 23-19 loss to the Detroit Lions. He suffered three damaged vertebrae and was pronounced out for the season Monday.

The Bengals close their season Saturday against Pittsburgh, the team Anderson set two NFL records against last month during a 20-of-22 performance.

Anderson will be replaced by backup quarterback Wayne Clark. Coach Paul Brown said starting cornerback Ken Riley, a former quarterback at Florida A & M, will undergo a crash course this week in the event Clark is injured.

Anderson finished with a 12-of-16 effort against Detroit before the injury Monday through the third quarter.

He had 87 yards to give him a career-high 2,667 yards for the season. He set a club record last year with 2,428 yards. His record-topping season included a 352-yard passing day against Houston.

"We had to win. We didn't want to wait until next week," said Kilmer of the Redskins emotions.

Kilmer, who completed 19 of 29 passes for 269 yards, added that the Rams Monday night, "I don't believe ... played up to their potential."

Allen said he was not surprised that the Rams tried — and failed — on a surprise pass by Mike Burke from punt formation in the second period, because Dallas had pulled that trick in the Thanksgiving Day 24-23 loss to the Cowboys.

"We were ready this time," said Allen, of Burke's pass that was broken up and gave Washington the ball on the Rams' 23. Four plays later, Kilmer threw a go-ahead touchdown pass.

Rams' starting quarterback James

Harris, "woozy" from being hit by Redskin pass rushers late in the first half, sat out the second half as young Ron Jaworski ran the Ram offense. But the Redskins weren't going to get caught napping.

On Burke's pass, Knox said, "No one thing turned the game around. It was not a pre-designed play that was sent in. We split an end off and nobody covered him. The punter has the option to throw but the receiver went a little too far downfield."

The receiver, recently acquired Tony Plummer, found himself well covered by the Redskins.

Allen didn't call it the turning point, but that Burke pass "was a big play. Any time a play sets up a score, it's big."

Southern California gained the most ground and South Carolina lost the most prestige in this week's Associated Press college basketball poll.

The Trojans shot up four places to the No. 6 ranking after two victories last week, while South Carolina plunged eight spots to No. 13 after an upset.

Southern Cal was given 435 points by the nation's sports writers and broadcasters after beating Oklahoma State 107-88 and Utah 102-82. South Carolina, last week's No. 5 club, was beaten 90-84 by Oklahoma, one of three new teams in the Top Twenty.

North Carolina State, UCLA and Indiana continued to run 1-2-3, the same position they've had since the pre-season polls.

North Carolina State, the defending national champion, won three games last week and was awarded 39 first-place votes and a total of 936 points.

UCLA won twice last week to improve its record to 4-0, same as the Wolfpack, and gained 862 points for a solid hold on the runnerup spot. The Bruins were awarded three ballots for first place.

Indiana, winner of two games last week, including a 74-70 triumph over powerful Kansas, gained four first-place ballots and 734 points.

Louisville, which opened its season with victories over Houston and Dayton, jumped two places to No. 4. The Cardinals got three first-place votes and gained 598 points. Maryland, despite improving its record to 3-0 with two easy victories, dropped one place to No. 5.

After Southern California, the rest of the Top Ten includes, No. 7 Marquette, 361 points; No. 8 North Carolina, 356;

Davis keys Flyers' win over Detroit

By The Associated Press

Detroit basketball Coach Dick Vitale says Dayton guard Johnny Davis, who almost singlehandedly demolished the Titans Monday night, definitely is All-American material.

"Davis was the key to everything they did," Vitale said after the Flyers beat Detroit 90-76 behind the sophomore guard's 34-point performance. "You have to stop him to stop Dayton."

"The whole Dayton offense goes down the court head-hunting to get Davis free," Vitale observed.

The 6-foot-2 Davis seemed to dribble right through the Titan press and hit the basket from all angles. He netted 14 points in a five-minute stretch en route to 22 second-half points and had a perfect 12-12 night from the free throw line.

The Flyers held a narrow advantage for most of the first half and had a 47-31 margin at intermission. They then got hot in the second period, hitting 67 per cent of their shots from the field, while Detroit managed only 30 per cent.

Assisting the Dayton attack were Joe Fisher and Leighton Moulton with 14 points apiece. Allen Elijah had a game-high 15 rebounds. The Flyers improved their record to 3-1.

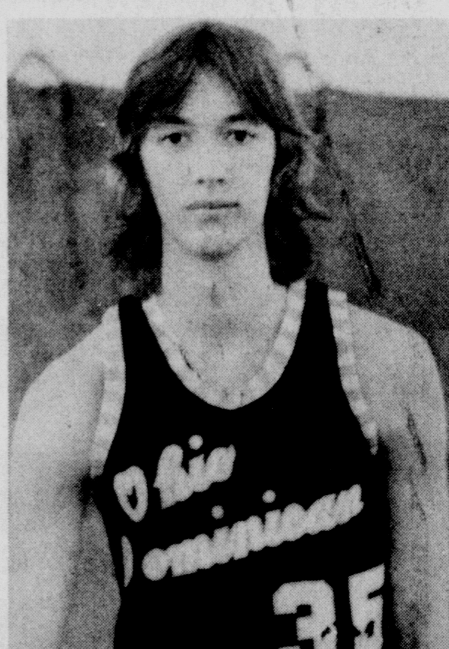

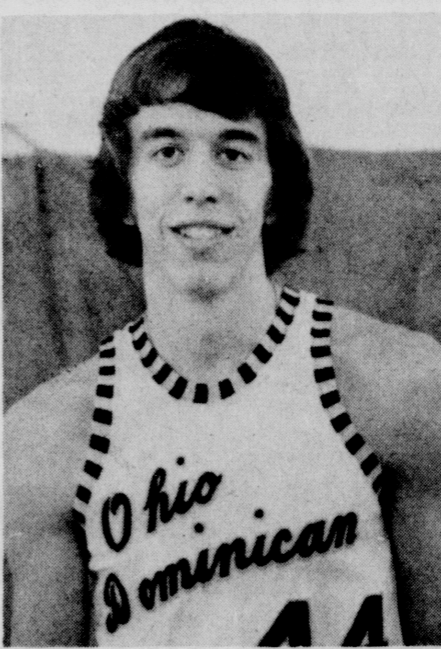

The loss was Detroit's first in three games. Dennis Boyd was the visitors' leading scorer with 13 points.

In other Ohio college basketball action Monday night, Central State downed Kenyon 79-65 as freshman Steve Bayless scored 22 points to give the Marauders their second victory in three games. Tim Appleton of Kenyon (3-3) also had 22 points to share scoring honors.

Dickie Kelley swished 30 points as Wheeling, W. Va., handed Ohio Dominican its third straight defeat, 93-76. Mark Lumm had 22 points for Dominican.

Two Ohio teams both made unsuccessful trips to Pennsylvania. Wilberforce was victimized by Point Park 93-65 and Mount Union fell to Grove City 55-52.

Dantley's 31 points leads Irish victory

By The Associated Press

Digger Phelps figured the percentages and kept his cool. It paid off in a 75-59 Notre Dame victory over Kansas.

The Jayhawks, No. 9 in the newest Associated Press college basketball rankings, shot 70 per cent from the field in the first half and grabbed a 22-16 lead at one point before intermission.

"We knew they couldn't shoot the whole game like they did in the first half," said Phelps, coach of the Illi-ranked Fighting Irish. "We figured the percentages."

In the end at South Bend, Ind., it was a pressing Notre Dame defense and the gamehigh 31 points of sophomore Adrian Dantley that led the Irish to their upset of Kansas. The game was close until midway through the second half when the Irish, making repeated steals, scored eight straight points and built leads up to 18 points.

Meanwhile, Kentucky, which dropped out of this week's rankings after a 98-74 loss to Indiana last week, shocked No. 8 North Carolina 90-78

Monday night with Jimmy Dan Conner scoring 35 points for the Wildcats.

Elsewhere among the Top Twenty, No. 10 Alabama drubbed Georgia Tech 91-76; 14th-ranked Memphis State edged Florida State 70-69; No. 15 Purdue turned back San Diego State 91-87, and No. 19 Oklahoma thrashed Jacksonville 87-69.

It looked as though Kentucky was still in a daze from the Indiana loss during the first half of the Wildcats' game at Louisville with the Tar Heels. North Carolina jumped off to a 15-point lead in the early going.

Then, with 6:24 left in the first half and trailing by nine, Kentucky seemed to react to the urging of a partisan crowd. The Wildcat defense went to work with Rick Robey, Mike Flynn and Conner igniting a comeback.

Conner led a Kentucky scoring burst at the start of the second half as the Wildcats forged in front by 15 points. The Wildcats shot 52.5 per cent in the second half and finished the game with 49.3 per cent.

Center Leon Douglas scored 25 points and pulled in 13 rebounds as Alabama overpowered Georgia Tech. On defense, Douglas, a 6-foot-10 junior, held three Tech centers to a combined total of only six points.

Alvin Adams' 21 points paced Oklahoma over Jacksonville.

The Boilermakers survived a 40-point, 16 rebound performance by San Diego State's Will Connelly when Walter Jordan hit eight straight points in the second half to put Purdue ahead for good.

Elsewhere, Vanderbilt, shooting 61.1 per cent from the floor, beat Texas Tech 95-86; Auburn reeled off 14 straight points in the second half in beating Western Carolina 85-76; and Kansas State beat Hofstra 92-60 for its fourth straight victory.

Rick Schmidt, a 6-foot-6 forward, scored 34 points, including 14 in the final nine minutes and lifted Illinois, now 3-0, to a 77-71 victory over Iowa State.

Record performance marred by 91-87 loss

By The Associated Press

Despite a record-setting 40 points by San Diego State center Will Connelly, Purdue grabbed the lead in the second half and held on for a 91-87 victory in inter-sectional Big Ten basketball Monday night.

Illinois downed Iowa State 77-71 and Northwestern turned back Valparaiso 82-74 in other games involving conference teams.

Connelly, a 6-foot-8 center, garnered 16 rebounds, tops in the game, and his scoring skills under the rim at San Diego toppled a San Diego State record set by Van Jacobsen in 1968-69.

Boilermaker Walter Jordan hit for eight straight points in the second half to put Purdue ahead to stay. Purdue had led 49-39 at intermission, and San Diego took a 62-61 lead midway through the second half before Jordan's barrage put the game away for the Boilermakers.

Center John Garrett and guard Bruce Parkinson shared scoring honors for Purdue with 19 points apiece. Jordan finished with 13.

The Big Ten over-all record is now 23-6 in inter-sectional play.

Rick Schmidt scored 35 points for the Illini, including 14 in the last nine minutes of the game.

The win upped Illinois' record to 4-0. Iowa State fell to 1-4.

Valparaiso tried a comeback in the second half of its game against Northwestern, but the Wildcats were able to hold on for a 82-74 triumph. With less than 12 minutes to play, Northwestern boasted a 16-point lead at 66-50. Valparaiso narrowed the gap to 70-65 with more than six minutes left to play, but the rally fizzled.

The win left Northwestern with a .500

Money Matters

By Robert E. Harper

Are You A "Comparison" Shopper?

Don't buy on impulse, or get trapped in "panic buying" — not if you want to get the most for your dollar.

The wise, careful shopper—the good money manager — evaluates, considers first the "need", and then studies all advertising pertaining to what is, or will be, needed.

Then, adopting a critical, almost "suspicious" attitude (because some advertising is questionable), several competing stores are visited and comparisons of both price and quality are made.

There are times when it is actually wise, and cheaper, to buy the most expensive brand or kind because quality, reflecting much longer life, better taste, better satisfaction, is often the key to actual the lowest cost, in spite of a greater initial price.

The sofa that last 10 years and costs a third more would seem to be a better buy than the one that collapsed in 2 years or less.

In times such as these one can often find better quality and better "bargains" in used or second-hand stores. These days "new" merchandise is often higher priced and much poorer quality than "hardly used" similar items.

But, remember: A bargain is not really a "bargain" unless one has an actual need for the item. A "steal" can turn out to be a very expensive "luxury".

Good Luck to Jack Brennan on being elected chairman to head the Red Cross Chapter.

A "well done" to Joe Peters for 18 years of service as retiring chairman of our local Red Cross Chapter.

Good Luck to Raldon Smith upon being selected Disaster Services Director and a "well done" to outgoing Director Bill Crooks.

An Afterthought: A service "talked" about is sometimes entirely different from the service that is "performed". Think about that, consider our Bank, your Friendly First National Bank of Washington Court House, and perhaps you'll agree with us that there is a difference in Banks!

Opening lead — king of hearts.

A fine declarer is like a fine detective who does a lot of legwork gathering up all the information he can before he finally gets around to cracking the case.

Take this deal where declarer is in six notrump. West leads the king of hearts and South would have an easy time making the slam if he knew where the queen of diamonds was located. He would either play for the drop or take a finesse in the right direction to bring home twelve tricks.

The question of how to play the diamonds is now solved. There is no doubt that West started with precisely seven hearts, two spades and two clubs—and hence exactly two diamonds.

So South cashes his two high diamonds without giving a thought to a finesse, and the slam comes marching home as a direct result of his investigative work—and by his putting two and two together to make four. It's like taking candy from a baby!

Braces for Teeth: When?

Is there any special age for braces to be used on children's teeth?

Dear Mrs. M.:

There is no universal age at which corrective work should be started.

Each dental problem must be individually evaluated.

Crooked teeth, irregularly spaced teeth, protruding teeth, and teeth that are "bunched up" and interfere with the normal growth of the jaw can now be corrected.

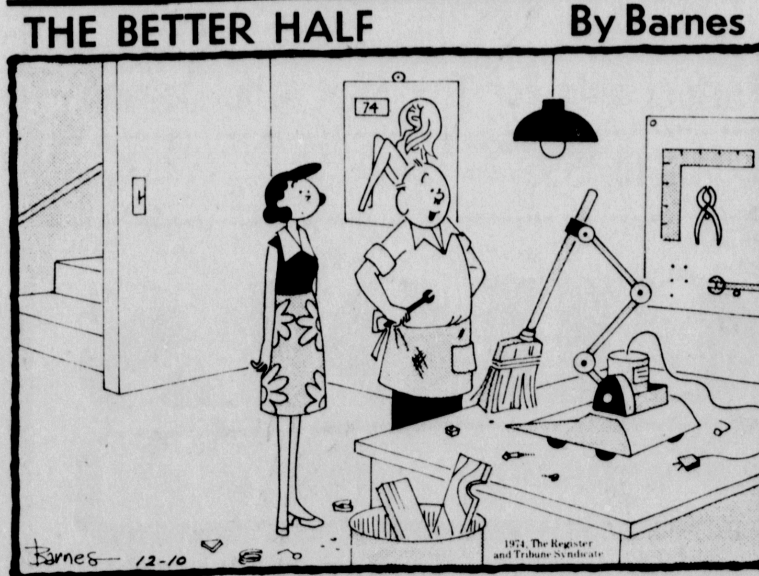

The orthodontist, using X-rays, models and casts, evaluates the problem and decides on the most advantageous time for the beginning of treatment.

The key to the best results lies in a very early examination by the orthodontist. As he watches the progress of development he can begin his reconstruction procedures long before bone and dental complications occur.

I was given a general anesthetic for an operation. I vividly remembered hearing people talk and was frightened by what they said before I went into a deep sleep. Don't hospital attendants know that their talk can be heard by the patient?

Mr. E.V.S., Ohio

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "Alcoholism—A Family Disease." It probes this grave problem and offers helpful advice. For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Alcoholism booklet), P.O. Box 3171, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

"If it works, we'll rule the world. If it doesn't, we can palm it off on someone as a Christmas gift."

Bus used as forum

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—City officials are taking a red, white and blue bus equipped with a loudspeaker, through local neighborhoods in search of how to spend $2.4 million in federal funds.

The bus is being used to explain the federally-funded Community Development Act and to receive suggestions for spending the money.

"We're trying to bring city hall to the neighborhoods," said Planning Director Walter Blair.

"We'll be handing out folders and soliciting ideas on what people think is needed in Hamilton, especially in housing and housing-related conditions," he added.

Hamilton is entitled to $595,000 next year under the Community Development Act, $706,000 in 1976, and $1,074,000 in 1977.

If anybody tries to tell you that this Claus boy is not smart, don't buy.

From where we sit he's doing quite a job this year. We see that he's picking up here in the camera shop and lots of folks are going to be quite happy with his selections.

Like, for example, books. Santa knows that PHOTOGRAPHY IS... is the best general book on the subject around, and he's picked up several copies for some of the good guys. And some of the good guys are going to find BIGGER AND BETTER ENLARGING under the tree. And some of the younger set will get some of the Wilder books like LITTLE HOUSE ON THE PRAIRIE or the set of "Little House" books in paperback.

If you're one of Santa's helpers you might want to get one of the good guys Klaas's AMELIA EARHART LIVES, or maybe Solzhenitsyn's THE GULAG ARCHIPELAGO. Another interesting book tells the story of the Pearl Harbor of World War I; yep, it seems like the Lusitania was set up to be sunk to get US into WW-1 just as the Pacific Fleet was set up to be hit to draw US into WW-11. Oh, yes, the name of the book is THE LUSITANIA, and the author is Simpson. If you've been extra good maybe Santa will slip a copy of THE LUSITANIA under the tree for you.

Claus has picked up cameras for many of the better people this year. Projectors will be under many of the trees, too. We're told that Santa won't be getting to Octa this year. Why?

"I'd love to go steady with you, Arnie, if you don't make some unreasonable demands...like not dating OTHER boys!"

Santa's problem pup

CHAPTER 1
By Bob Boyle

Juniperperper and Jinkersnipes, two of Santa's elves, were walking back to Santa's house for lunch after spending the morning working in the Christmas ball factory.

The two walked together for a short distance when Jinkersnipes heard a strange noise.

The noise continued. "Maybe it is a big polar bear," Jinkersnipes said. "It sounds like a dog!" Juniperperper said.

"But all the pups are in Santa's kennel," Jinkersnipes said. "And the little lady elf, Kay Nihn, takes such good care of them. I'm sure none go loose."

"Maybe we better run and tell Santa," Jinkersnipes said. "No, no, let's take a look behind that big snowbank over there," Juniperperper said. "I bet it is a dog."

The two little elves tiptoed to the snowbank, and Juniperperper got on his hands and knees and climbed to the top.

He looked over. "Hey," he shouted. "It's a dog."

Jinkersnipes shouted, "Is it a big one?"

"It's no pup," Juniperperper said, "but it is a small dog. It looks like a little collie."

"Is it friendly?" Jinkersnipes asked.

"It's wagging its furry tail," Juniperperper said.

Juniperperper whistled and called, "Come here, boy! Come on nice doggie!"

The little dog bounded up the snowbank, stood in front of Juniperperper and licked him right on his nose.

"Is he biting you?" Jinkersnipes called.

"No, he is licking my nose and it tickles," Juniperperper said.

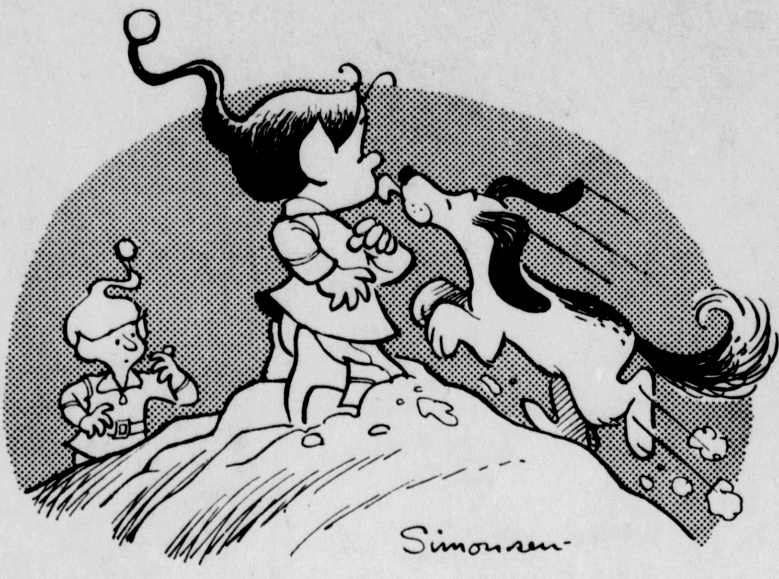

"Bring him down," Jinkersnipes said.

Juniperperper got up and rolled down the snowbank with the dog following barking and leaping about.

"He certainly looks pretty," Jinkersnipes said. "I wonder where he came from."

"I don't know," Juniperperper said. "But let's take him back to Santa's house. Maybe Santa will let us keep him as a pet."

The two little elves ran lickity split down the winding trail to Santa's house with the little dog running happily behind them.

They ran into the kitchen.

Mrs. Claus turned to look at the elves.

"What in the world is that with you?" she said. "Where did that dog come from?"

"We don't know, Mrs. Claus," Juniperperper said. "We found him behind a snowbank and he followed us home."

"Well he isn't one of Santa's pups," she said. "Ah, the poor dear looks frozen. Let's give him something warm to drink."

Juniperperper rushed to the stove and took a bowlful of warm tea from it, and placed it before the dog.

"Juniperperper," Mrs. Claus said. "Dogs don't drink tea."

But before her words were out, the little dog was lapping up the tea.

"He likes it, Mrs. Claus," Jinkersnipes said.

"My, that is a strange dog," she said. "I never knew of a dog that would drink tea. And, that is my good orange pekoe tea."

"Look, Mrs. Claus," Juniperperper said. "I believe he wants more."

Juniperperper put some more warm tea in the bowl and the dog, wagging its tail, lapped up the rest.

"I wonder what his name is," Mrs. Claus said.

"I know," Jinkersnipes said. "Let's call him Tea because he likes tea."

"No, no, Juniperperper said. "That would be a silly name for a dog. How about Orange? It's orange pekoe tea, you know."

Mrs. Claus clucked her tongue and said, "Boys, that wouldn't be a good name for a dog, but I have a fine name."

"What, Mrs. Claus," they shouted. "Tell us."

"Well, why not call him Peakako," she said. "I think that is a fine name for a dog."

"Peakako!" Juniperperper said. "That is a nice name."

"Peakako," Jinkersnipes said. "That is a good name."

"Well then, Peakako it is," Mrs. Claus said as she walked over to the dog and petted him on the head. "You're a good dog, Peakako, and welcome to the North Pole."

"Can we keep him then, Mrs. Claus?" Juniperperper asked.

"Oh, boys, you all know Santa's rules," Mrs. Claus said. "All pets at the North Pole must be delivered Christmas Eve. Suppose we kept all adorable pets, why, not a child would get one."

"Please, Mrs. Claus," they pleaded.

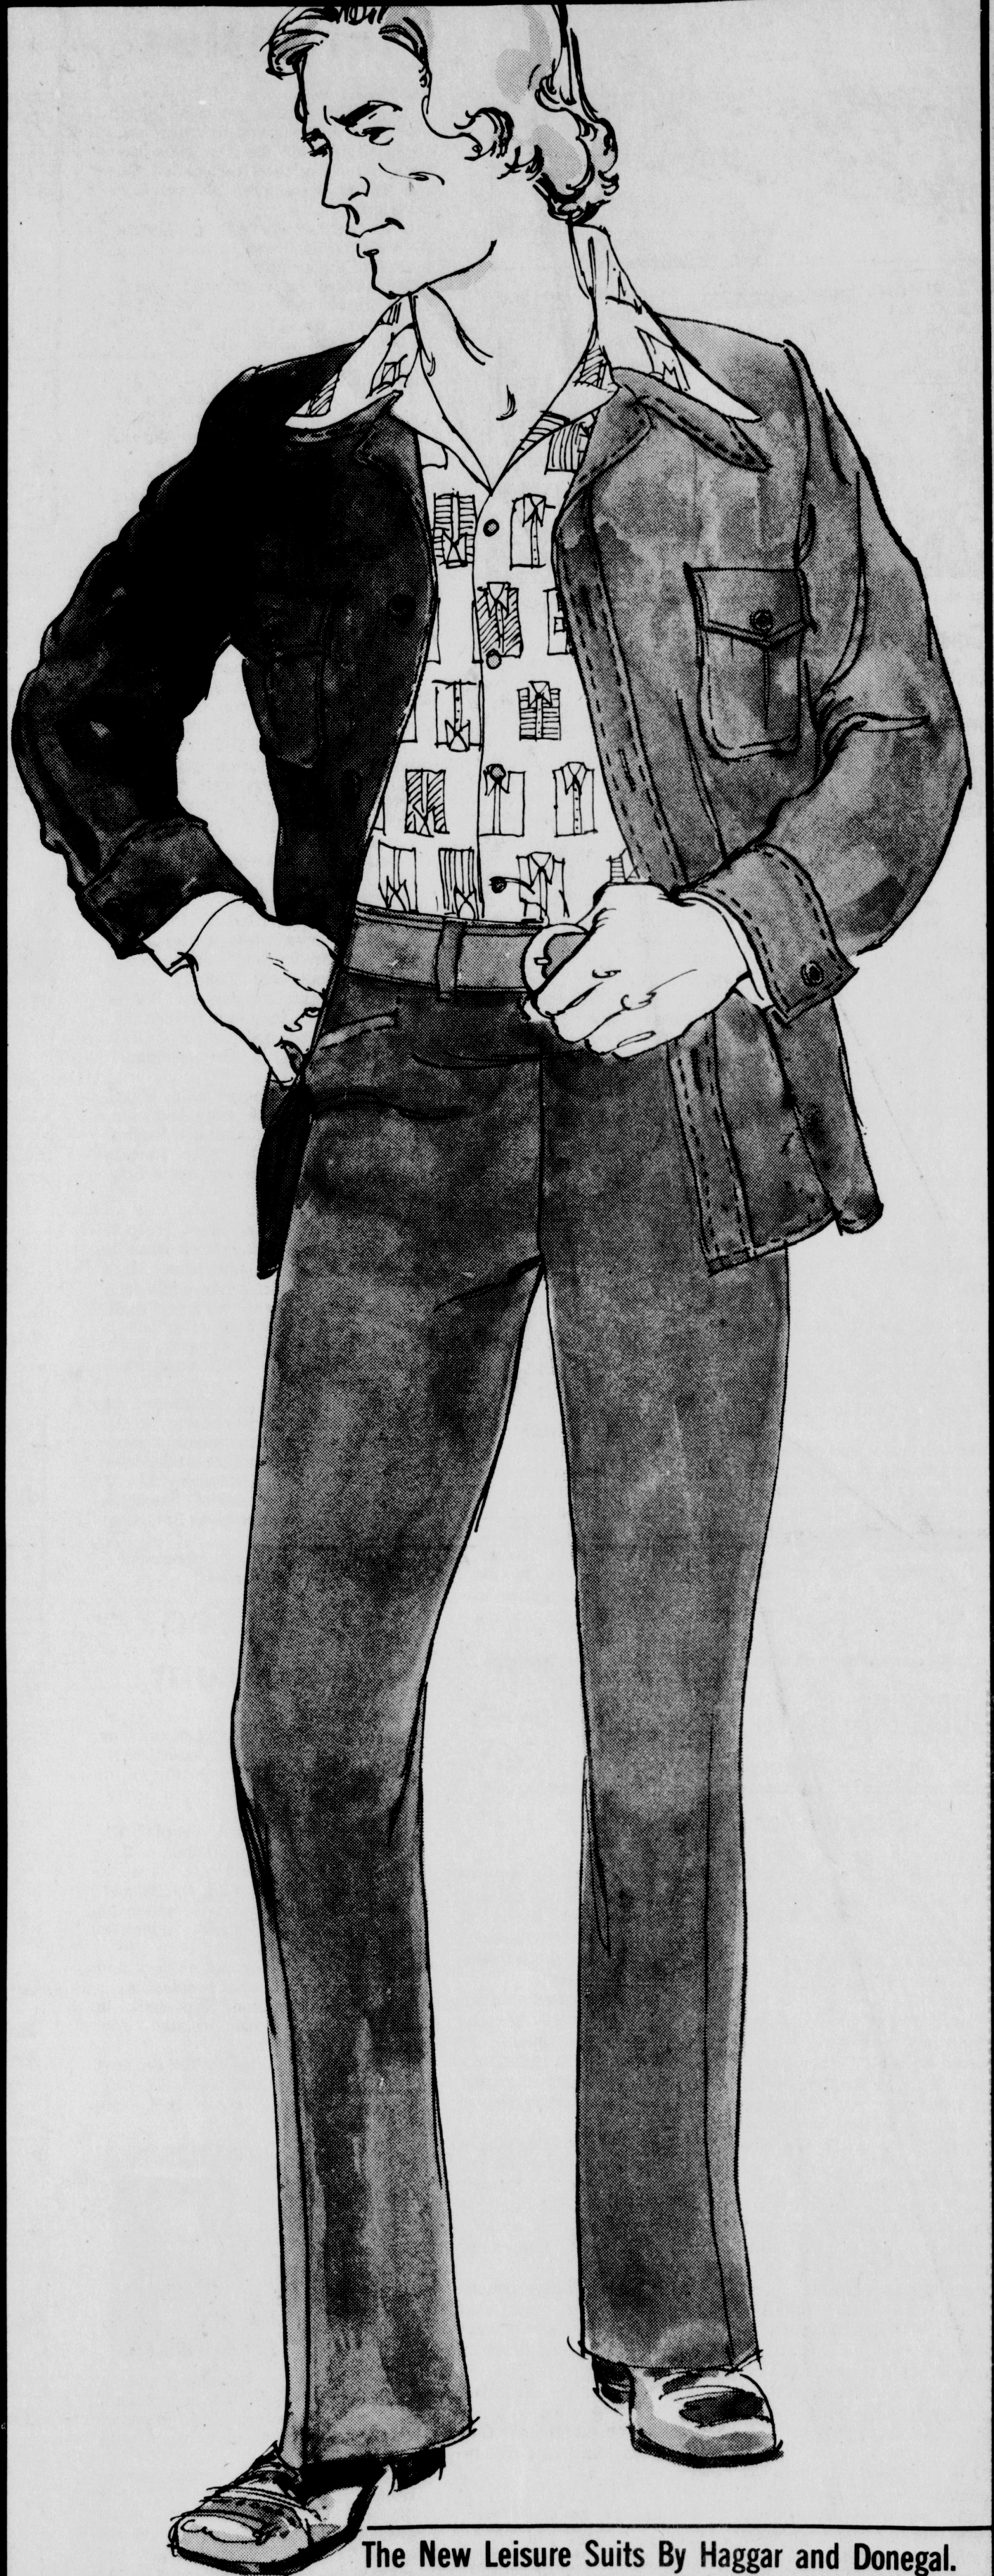

"That's Santa's decision," she said.

"Let's go ask Santa," Jinkersnipes said. "Let's hurry."

The two little elves with their newfound friend, Peakako, at their heels ran toward Santa's office.
